Attire and Warehousemen Are Ready for the Opening of Bargaining.

Georgia tobacco farmers today will begin to cash in on what agriculturists predict will be the greatest crop on record in the state.

A yield exceeding not only in quantity but in quality that of last year, which set a record in poundage produced, was the optimistic tone of reports, upheld partially by official estimates, from the 22 south Georgia market centers Tuesday night on the eve of the opening of the 1928 bright leaf auction season.

With many communities in gala attire for the occasion, all was in readiness at the state's 52 warehouses for the opening of bargaining. Scores of growers already had occupied spaces on the warehouse floors, many others were en route with their offerings, and the presence of expert buying staffs from all the principal tobacco manufacturing concerns presaged a brisk business for opening day.

500,000 Pounds at Opening.
Incomplete reports Tuesday night were that upward of half a million pounds of the "golden weed" will be on the floors of the larger markets when sales begin, with expectations that this figure will be greatly exceeded when all vendors report at the close of the day's business.

Despite early season rains, at first considered to have had a damaging effect on the crop in some sections, forecasts by the department of agriculture placed the total production this year at roughly 68,000,000 pounds, a figure some 15 per cent larger than that of 1927, and involving an acreage increase of 30 per cent over last year.

Reports from some areas are to the effect that losses of leaves from rain, blight, worms and other causes have been negligible as contrasted with those of last year, when drought, sudden rains and inability of many farmers properly to handle their yields combined to cause great damage. This has led to confident predictions that last year's average price of 19 cents per pound will be exceeded, due to all around better quality.

Curing Near Completion.
Indications were, according to advice received here, that most growers will have completed curing by the end of the week, and all are expected to have finished this process by the close of next week. The refusal of farmers generally to sell their crops to independent buyers or speculators has been remarked by observers. This year there will be 12 more warehouses than were opened in 1927 and two new markets—States-

MRS. W. H. SMITH IS BADLY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. W. H. Smith, of 705 Echols street, was taken to Gray hospital Tuesday afternoon suffering from a broken collarbone and bruises received when the car in which she was riding, driven by her son, William Smith, collided with an automobile driven by J. N. Newby, a soldier belonging to the second infantry, stationed at Fort McPherson. The accident occurred on Lee street, near Donnelly street.

Police Lieutenant L. J. Carroll investigated the accident and booked charges of reckless driving against both drivers. The cases will be tried before recorder's court Friday afternoon.

BY THOMAS E. MORGAN.
Rome, July 31.—(United News.)—General Umberto Nobile and the small group of his companions, who were rescued from the icy north after the crash of the ill-fated Italia, arrived home today to receive their first cheers.

Hissed and booed, or even completely ignored during their dash from Copenhagen to Italy, the group arrived among their countrymen to the plan and they anticipated it would result in the reconvening of the Geneva preliminary conference probably in the fall.

The terms of the Franco-British understanding are believed, in a general way, to agree with the French theory that an all-embracing naval tonnage total be assigned to each power under the projected universal disarmament, or rather limitation of armament, treaty, for which the League of Nations hopes to pave the way through the deliberations of the preliminary conference.

To reconcile this with the British point of view, also shared at Geneva by the United States and Japan, France is willing, it is understood, that a specific construction program for each category of combat ships within the limits of the total or global tonnage allotment shall be laid down by treaty.

The construction treaty, however, when incorporated in a general disarmament project which would include as well as sea armaments, or handled as a separate treaty matter, would be effective only for a definite period of time, such as 10 years, within which time such nation would agree not to exceed the specific tonnage in any category.

The nubbin of the whole matter, it is believed here, is that at last France and Great Britain appear to have arrived at a solution of the difficulty which has led to construction of the Washington five-power naval reduction treaty to other than capital ships, which has led to confident predictions that last year's average price of 19 cents per pound will be exceeded, due to all around better quality.

NEW GOLF COURSE WORK AUTHORIZED

Construction of Nine-
Hole Course at John A.
White Park Is Ordered
Started at Once.

Immediate start on construction of a nine-hole golf course for the John A. White park, located in the southwestern section of the city, was authorized Tuesday at a special meeting of the parks committee of city council and Wilson Matthews, who will direct maintenance of municipally-owned courses here, was introduced to members of the committee and assigned to his duties.

Action of the committee Tuesday was an effort to donate the entire 107 acres comprising the White park to the establishment of an 18-hole golf links without reserving playground and other recreational space, and came on the heels of receipt of a letter from Mrs. Chester Johnson, president of the West End Woman's club, protesting conversion of the entire strip into a golf course without regard to other activities and recreational facilities.

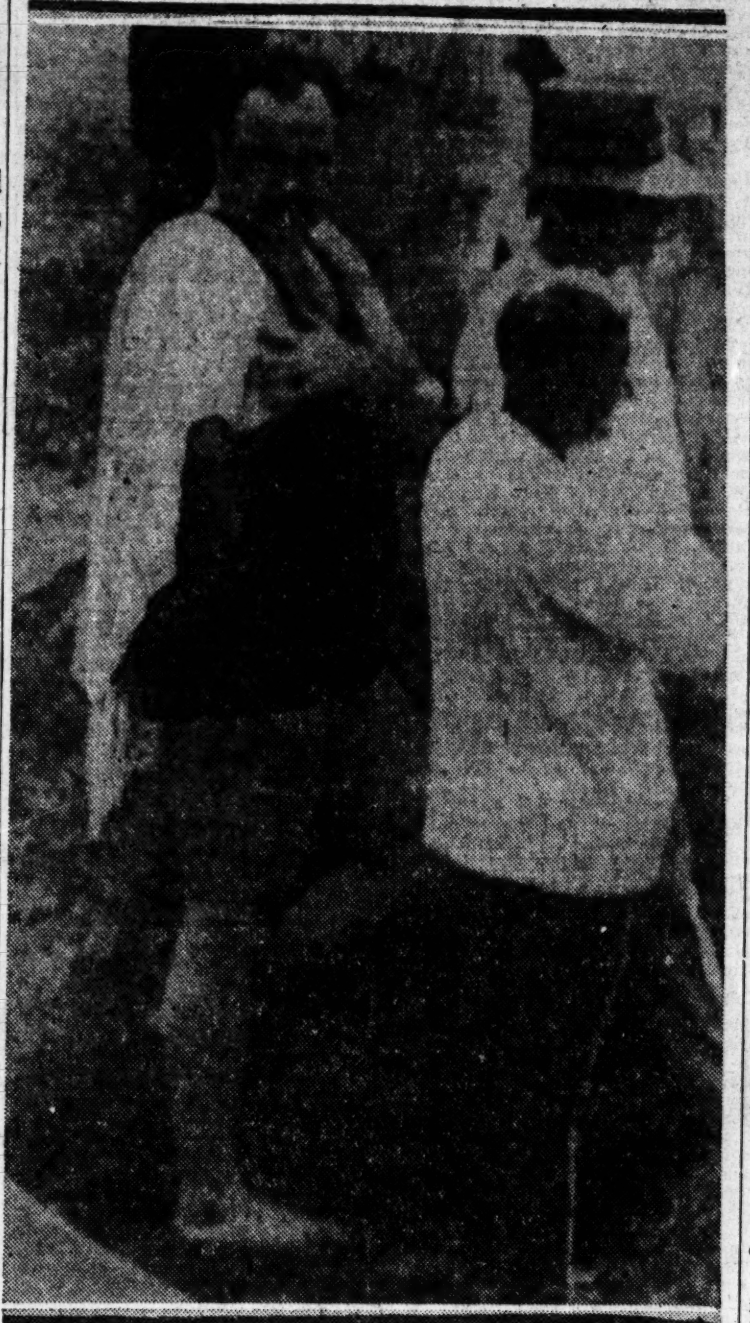

Playground Facilities.
Under the ruling of the committee, adequate ground space will be reserved for the playground and a densely wooded section at Cascade and Huff roads will be preserved.

City council has appropriated $4,000 for the course and actual work on construction of the course will be started immediately, according to officials.

Plans for the nine-hole course were reapproved at the meeting Tuesday, members of the committee contending that adequate grounds for other recreational activities in addition to golf should be reserved.

Slaying in Brooklyn Traced to Capone Guns

Al Capone, with towel over shoulder, is linked with the recent gang killing in Brooklyn of Frankie Yale, former Capone crony. Grilling of Parker A. Henderson, of Florida, revealed that Henderson had purchased a dozen pistols for the gang chief. Police declare they have identified the death gun as one of Capone's. The above photograph was taken at a recent Miami prize fight.

New York, July 31.—(AP)—Police questioned the young son of a former mayor of Miami, Fla., today in an effort to connect the gunman of Scarface Al Capone, Chicago racketeer, with the slaying of Frankie Yale, one time crony of Capone's, who was "put on the spot" in Brooklyn on July 1.

After a long conference between District Attorney Dodd, of Brooklyn, police inspectors in charge of the detective forces of Brooklyn and Manhattan, Chief of Police Reeve, of Miami, and Parker A. Henderson, Jr., whose father, now dead, was once a Miami mayor, police announced that they had definite information that the guns which killed Yale came from the Capone arsenal.

They said they had discovered that shortly before Yale was killed four of Capone's henchmen went to Miami from Chicago and were furnished there with weapons and told to "get" Yale. They bought tickets back to Chicago, which they ostensibly showed around before leaving Miami in an effort, police said, to establish an alibi in advance.

Instead of return to Chicago, according to the police, these four gunmen dropped off the train in Tennessee, bought an automobile and proceeded to the foot of Mobile, where they hid.

MAN BADLY HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Two Occupants of Machine Are Arrested After Figuring in Three
Crashes in Same Night.

S. H. Payton, of 1008 Hemphill avenue, and Ed. Hicks, of 713 Fowler drive, are being held at police station, and Y. C. Cantrell, 63, of 684 Anderson street, S. E., is at Grady hospital suffering from a broken leg, after having been struck down late Tuesday night on the Washington street viaduct. Their arrest was the climax of three accidents in which their car figured.

Payton and Hicks, accompanied by an unknown companion, were riding in an automobile which Payton had rented from a rent car station, and were first seen when they passed the police station on Decatur street at a high rate of speed, it is claimed. Several officers gave chase, but lost the trail in a few minutes.

About five minutes later, the rented car hit another car, but did only slight damage. Then it struck Cantrell as he stood by his own automobile repairing a tire. Again the speeding car continued on its way, and then crashed into a sedan owned by B. L. Keller, of 498 Highland avenue, N. E., and demolished both cars.

The three occupants of the car jumped out and one of them asked Mr. Keller if he was hurt. When he answered that he was not, they left the scene. Patrolmen Lowe and Wallace were near the scene of the accident, and chased the three men. The officers caught Payton and Hicks later, at the intersection of Forrest avenue and Butler street.

Both men are being held on charges of reckless driving, operating a car while drunk, being drunk, leaving the scene after an accident, and speeding. Payton claims that Hicks was driving the car, according to police reports. Some whiskey in a pint bottle was found in the rented car, it is said. Police are searching for the third member of the party.

JUDGE DISMISSES
INJUNCTION SUIT

Showdown Appears To Be Rapidly Approaching in Fight for Party Control in Georgia.

Two meetings of the republican state central committee, one in Atlanta and the other in Macon, have been called for August 11 by G. P. Flanders, of Swainsboro, and Roscoe Pickett, of Jasper, both claimants of the chairmanship of the committee, in the approach to a showdown as to just who controls the party in this state. It developed Tuesday after Judge E. E. Pomeroy dismissed an injunction suit against the Flanders wing of the party.

Immediately after the suit for injunction to prevent the Flanders faction from naming electors was dismissed by the court on the motion of the plaintiff, B. J. Coker, Albany negro, the committee was called by Flanders to meet at the Fulton county courthouse at 11 o'clock on Saturday morning of next week. Roscoe Pickett, who still claims the chairmanship despite the contention of Ben J. Davis, Atlanta negro, that he was ousted at a meeting of the executive committee here recently, has called the committee together for a meeting in Macon on the same day.

The fact that a showdown is rapidly approaching in the affairs of the republican party in Georgia did not seem to worry either faction Tuesday. Both sides expressed the belief that the other faction would not have a quorum present at the meeting.

A quorum of the committee is 36 out of the 71 members. The showdown-

HOOVER WILL END VACATION TODAY

Nominee Proves Self
Good Angler; Hopes To Finish His Acceptance
Speech by Saturday.

Brown's Camp, Near Hornbrook, Calif., July 31.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover demonstrated his skill as an angler today by catching nearly a dozen rainbow trout in Beaver creek, about 30 miles from this place.

Accompanied by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford university, and another friend, the republican presidential nominee left his cottage here shortly after dawn and motored nearly 10 miles to a point where the highway ended. The party fished in the creek there until saddle horses could be obtained from a nearby ranch.

Good Fishing Grounds.
The mountain trail then led through trees and underbrush for a distance of 15 miles to what proved to be good fishing grounds. Some of the rainbow trout were as large as 12 inches and were thrown back into the stream, but the party brought home a sizeable string to show for their morning's effort.

After lunch Mr. Hoover rested until time for his party to break camp and leave by motor for Shasta springs, 70 miles away across the Sierran range and to the foot of Mount Shasta, the snow-clad peak which rises 14,236 feet.

After spending the night at the hotel at Shasta Springs, the nominee will try his luck for the fourth time on this trip, fishing in tributaries of the McCloud or Pit rivers, the exact location to depend upon reports as to where the fish are the most plentiful.

Start Return Tonight.
Tomorrow evening Mr. Hoover and his companions will motor to Dunsmuir where they will board a train for the return trip to San Francisco. Arriving there at 7:30 o'clock, Thursday.

MOTORBOAT FAR BEHIND SCHEDULE IN RIVER RACE

Vicksburg, Miss., July 31.—(AP)—Running far behind his schedule after breaking a propeller, Dr. Louis Leroy, Memphis sportsman, nosed the Bogie, his 36-foot motorboat away from a Vicksburg wharf at 7:30 o'clock tonight and a few minutes later the trim craft was plying up the Mississippi "trying to break the record of the Robert E. Lee."

The boat was disabled a few miles north of Natchez when the propeller caught in some driftwood. Despite the hazards of the feat, Dr. Leroy and his two companions, A. A. Faris, veteran Hickman, Ky., river man, and Robert Hunter, Memphis, stalled the Bogie in midstream and replaced the propeller with a spare one taken along for such an emergency.

WAR CLOUDS HANG
OVER STRIKE AREA;
BOMB PLOT HINTED

Temporary Peace Brought
After Troops Quell
Rioters; Pickets Given
Terms in Workhouse.

BY WILLARD E. MARTIN, JR.
New Bedford, Mass., July 31.—(United News.)—Peace prevailed in this textile city tonight, but it was a peace perhaps only temporary and fraught with uncertainty and ominous rumblings only of possible trouble.

A cordon of police was guarding the home of John Sullivan, president of the New Bedford Cotton Manufacturers' association who reported to authorities he had received a warning over the telephone that his home was to be dynamited. Other police, tense with more than 15 weeks of a seemingly endless strike, watched for possible disturbances at various points in the city.

First Hint of Violence.
Monday night militia had been called out for the first time since the beginning of the strike, April 16, to disperse a crowd of 2,500 persons who were gathered about the police station where 250 arrested picketers were incarcerated for the night awaiting arraignment.

Tonight's threat of dynamiting was the first hint of violence in the more than 13 weeks in which manufacturers and workers have stood adamant in their demands—the manufacturers for a 10 per cent wage cut and the operatives for their old wage.

The strike, which has reduced business to almost a standstill and meant a loss of millions of dollars to employees and employers, has been in the main peaceful. Occasional clashes between police and picketers before the mill gates have occurred, but no large number of arrests were made until the last few days, following a statement by a local judge that picketing activities were illegal.

First Arrests July 25.
The first picketing arrests came July 24 when six members of the New England textile committee group, a so-called radical organization, were taken in custody for illegal picketing. Two days later 75 pickets were arrested for rioting and refusing to move on police order, while 250 more were arrested Monday for similar offenses.

The local court was a scene of feverish activity today with the large number of arrests.

SMITH RETURNS TO ALBANY TODAY

Democratic Nominee
Keeps Lid on Politics as Vacation at Resort on Long Island Ends.

Hampton Bays, N. Y., July 31.—(AP)—Reluctant to wind up his vacation, Governor Smith played a final round of golf on the shore today, took a farewell swim in Great Peconic bay and got ready to return to the political atmosphere of New York city and Albany. He plans to leave here by motor around noon tomorrow.

The democratic presidential nominee gave every indication that until after the end of his holiday, at least, he would avoid discussion of politics. Even the withdrawal of part of William Allen White's charges against his legislative record evoked no comment except a reiteration of "nothing to say at this time."

Smith was breakfasting with his old friend, William H. Humphreys, of Albany, at Canoe Place inn when advised by newspapermen that White had withdrawn charges relating to vice and prostitution, but was standing by his guns in his attack on his record as an assemblyman with regard to the saloon.

16 KILLED AND 40 INJURED BY TRAIN CRASH IN BAVARIA

Augsburg, Germany, July 31.—(AP)—Sixteen persons were killed and more than 40 were injured today in the collision of a passenger train with a standing freight near Dinkelscherben, Bavaria. The passenger train crashed head-on into a freight, telescoping the locomotive and three cars. A defective switch is believed to have caused the accident.

DEMOCRATIC CHIEF

Equalization Fee Holds
Interest at Parley of Peek and Leaders of Governor Smith.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
United News Staff Correspondent.

New York, July 31.—Chairman John J. Raskob, of the democratic national committee, and a group of his leaders heard today from the lips of George N. Peek, republican, chairman of the corn belt committee representing farm organizations, that Governor Alfred E. Smith can carry several farm states if the democrats meet the farm relief issue squarely.

Raskob, a big business man, appeared convinced of the necessity of the equalization principle for agriculture after the four-hour conference in which all phases of the farm problem had been discussed. He will not take a stand on the so-called "equalization fee" in the McNary-Haugen bill until further study.

Peek reiterated his indorsement of the agricultural plank in the democratic platform, but said he would not take a position on the Smith candidacy until he has received from the democratic candidate his interpretation of that plank. He will confer with Smith in the next few days.

Peek said farmers had not modified their position as far as the equalization principle is concerned, though he pointed out there are other ways of reaching the same result, among them an excise tax. His statement was interpreted as indicating that democrats are working on some plan along the same line, but not slightly different from the equalization fee which has stirred up so much opposition among business interests in the eastern U. S.

While Peek was talking with newspapermen Raskob broke in to discuss the equalization fee operation, saying it had been "much misunderstood" in the east and declaring for a solution which would remedy the farmers' situation. Raskob had grasped the subject fully during the afternoon's discussion.

"As far as I am concerned," he said, "the position of the democratic party is that the problem must be solved on principles that are sound economically and not be based on political considerations."

Peek sees a large opportunity for the democrats if they will meet the farm issue.

Farm dissatisfaction is quite general, he said, in the grain and livestock states. He named a dozen states where this situation exists—Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Montana, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, Indiana and Michigan.

"I hope," he said, "that farmers will vote their economic interest rather than their partisanship. Congress has twice approved the equalization fee principle," Peek declared. "The problem is to elect a president who will approve it."

"I said a few weeks ago that I wanted Governor Smith to express his interpretation of the agricultural plank in the democratic platform," he said. "I am satisfied with everything he has said up to date."

HARDMAN RENAMES FORBES, ROBERTSON

Governor L. G. Hardman Tuesday announced the reappointment of Dr. M. M. Forbes, of Atlanta, as a member of the state board of dental examiners. He also announced appointment of T. H. Robertson, of Gainesville, as a member of the board of trustees of Georgia State Teachers' college, Athens, to succeed the late L. M. Brand, of Lawrenceville.

PAYNE GIVES $500 TO STUDENT FUND

With a contribution of $500 made Tuesday by J. Carroll Payne, prominent Atlanta lawyer, the Logan M. Blackley fund established by the Georgia State Bar association to aid students to complete law courses at the University of Georgia has reached a total of $3,500. It was announced by Logan E. Blackley, treasurer of the association.

The memorial is in honor of Mr. Blackley's father, the late Judge Logan E. Blackley, one of the foremost jurists of the south. This money is used as an educational loan fund by the bar association under terms of resolutions adopted at its session at Tybee Island last month.

In the American Bar Association Journal for July, 1928, there appeared a letter from H. F. Lawson, secretary of the Georgia Bar association, in which he said, referring to the proceedings of the association: "During the session of the association Hon. Logan Blackley, clerk of the court of appeals of Georgia, and a son of Logan E. Blackley, Georgia's great judge and lawyer, offered to contribute to the association the sum of $1,000 as a memorial to his father. This fund is to be used together with other contributions made thereto by individuals and from the treasury of the association in furnishing a legal education to deserving young men and young women of the state. Hon. T. A. Hammond, of Atlanta, made a like contribution as a memorial to his father, N. J. Hammond, and Judge Luther Z. Rosser, of the municipal court of Atlanta, made a like contribution as a memorial to his father, the late Luther Rosser, of Atlanta."

The treasury of the Georgia Bar association, which is in excellent shape, and it is the purpose of the association at this time and from year to year hereafter to make substantial contributions to the above fund.

The association voted a contribution of $2,000 at its last session. The president of the association, John M. Slaton, appointed on the loan commission to administer the fund, Judge A. W. Cozart, of Columbus, chairman, and Logan Blackley, state capital, Atlanta, and Judge W. Smith, Grant building, Atlanta, and Judge Luther Z. Rosser, Atlanta, as the other members of the commission.

Those desiring to apply for the benefit of this loan fund must be a young man or young woman who is a resident and citizen of Georgia, of good moral character, of mental and physical fitness, and who expects to practice law in Georgia.

Judge Cozart said that while every application should be and will be considered on its own merits, it is the desire of the commission to aid those and only those who are in need of a loan and those who are qualified to be admitted to a law school in Georgia, which requires a three-year course before granting the degree of J.L.B.

In this connection, he says that he has been informed that the Knights Templar Educational Loan Fund, Georgia, has granted aid to more than 2,000 students and only two have failed to pay back the money loaned.

He further said that the annual report of the Rotary Educational Foundation of Atlanta set forth the remarkable facts that at the end of its first six years it had enabled 257 college students to continue their schooling as a direct result of the activities of its loan fund, and that most of these students had attended colleges and universities in this state.

Seventy-one had attended the Georgia School of Technology; 69 had attended Emory university; 38 had attended the University of Georgia, and only five had attended law schools.

The loan commission of the Georgia Bar association will be glad to receive and give proper consideration to all applications made by worthy young men and women who come within the above qualifications, and the chairman will furnish, upon application, proper blanks for application for loan.

Judge Cozart further stated that the world is learning that for one to be useful he must be used, and in order that the worthy may get the benefit of this loan fund the commission must see to it that it is not imposed upon by anyone who is unworthy. The amount of money at the present time is limited. Therefore such funds must be administered with great caution.

LETTER CARRIERS NAME J. H. BALCOM AS NEW PRESIDENT

Athens, Ga., July 31.—(AP)—James H. Balcom, Jeffersonville, was today elected head of the rural letter carriers of the state. He succeeds Ben L. Camp, Whitesburg. Gainesville was selected for the meeting place for 1929.

Congressman Charles H. Brand yesterday delivered the principal address of the day, praising the efficiency of the men who daily serve "30,000,000 people in the United States." The opening meeting yesterday was called to order by B. L. Camp, Whitesburg, president. The convention was to conclude its sessions after election and other business today.

Security Bankers Bondholders Enjoy Profit Participation

The Security Bankers Finance corporation, an industrial banking concern with headquarters 522-25 Healey building, Atlanta, today is mailing out to its bondholders of record as of June 30, 1928, semi-annual participating profits, amounting to 2 per cent of the face of their bonds. These profit-sharing earnings are payable twice a year, February 1 and August 1, in addition to the regular quarterly interest earned on their bonds.

EXCHANGE CLUB PLANS BIG TIME FOR ORPHANS

Plans for the annual "Sunshine Special" picnic and outing for orphan children on August 7, occupied the weekly meeting of the Atlanta Exchange club Tuesday afternoon. Judson Garner was selected as marshal of the parade, which will pass through the downtown section of the city as a preliminary to the day of entertainment and fun for the children.

The sunshine outing is a national feature of the Exchange club activities. The Atlanta club expects to care for more than 500 children on its picnic, and arrangements are being made to obtain automobiles in which to transport the guests to and from Idlewood park, where the outing will be held.

Chattahoochee Valley And Gulf Association To Be Formed Soon

Formation of a Chattahoochee Valley and Gulf association for the purpose of promoting the commercial and industrial welfare of the territory will be discussed at a meeting at the Ralston hotel in Columbus on August 14. It was announced Tuesday by J. Ralston Cargill, secretary and treasurer and traffic manager of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce.

The consummation of the deep water project from New Orleans, La., to Columbus, now under survey by the army corps of engineers, will be one of the principal projects of the association, it was said. Norman T. Tamm, chief of the transportation division, department of commerce, will deliver an address at the meeting. L. W. James, district manager of the department of commerce at Mobile, and Harry O. Mitchell, Atlanta district manager, have been invited to attend.

CLIFFORD WALKER TELLS CIVITANS OF BANKING AIDS

Former Governor Clifford Walker addressed the regular meeting of the Civitan club Tuesday in the Atlanta Athletic club on the subject of "Industrial Banking."

Mr. Walker commended the campaigns that have been made against the "loan sharks" and urged development of loan banks on the basis adopted by the Russell Sage foundation. About 85 per cent of the people have no banking credit facilities, the former governor stated, adding that there is good opportunity for industrial banks operating on the Sage foundation recommendations.

H. Z. Hopkins presided at the meeting. Announcement was made of the annual Civitan party to be held August 14 at East Lake, with Julian V. Boehm in charge of arrangements.

NEW TRIAL REFUSED IN DAMAGE ACTION

The trial judge was right in rejecting three Atlanta municipal ordinances in the damage suit of George Avery against Raymond Stewart, and the Georgia Court of Appeals affirmed the finding of the lower tribunal in refusing the defendant a new trial, it was set forth Tuesday in a decision.

Avery, alleging that he had been struck by an automobile driven by Stewart, had been awarded damages of $1,000. Defendant counsel offered three ordinances in the case, one purporting to control motor vehicular traffic, one requiring pedestrians to move to the right curb as soon as he alights from a vehicle, and another calling for two lighted lamps of not exceeding 32-candle power for automobiles.

Even if the lower tribunal had seen fit to admit the ordinances into evidence, the pleading did not indicate that they were applicable in this case, the court said.

38 ARE ACCEPTED BY SALVATION ARMY TRAINING SCHOOL

Application of 38 young men and women for admission to the Salvation Army officers' training garrison here to prepare for lives of evangelistic and social service were accepted by the southern territorial candidate's board of the army Tuesday.

The applications accepted leave 22 vacancies in the garrison quota set for this year and additional applications will be considered between now and the opening of the next training session September 12, it was stated by Captain Norman Marshall, the candidate's secretary.

Florida and North Carolina lead in the number of successful applicants with seven each; Alabama and Arkansas have four each, Texas and Virginia three each, Georgia, West Virginia, South Carolina and Washington, D. C., two each, while Texas and Oklahoma have had one candidate each.

All the applications passed on Tuesday had been under advisement for several months while the candidates were under observation of Salvation Army officers, church and educational leaders in their home towns.

LIONS CLUB HEARS CONVENTION REPORT

Reports by Paul Donohoe, Jacques Partain and Walter Dillon on the national convention of Lions clubs were the principal features of the weekly Lions club meeting Tuesday afternoon. James Cathcart, Lions' district governor of South Carolina, was a guest of the occasion and also made a short talk. Bob Bogel, Atlanta member, provided the day's entertainment by reading several original poems.

Have you tried this wonderful loaf of richer bread?

So MANY people are changing to Southern Bread! Even those who have been most insistent on making their own at home. For they find Southern Bread so tender and delicious, so fresh and so rich—so exactly what they and their children want in bread, that the trouble and cost and risk of home baking seem no longer worth while.

Southern Bread is made with the ingredients you yourself would buy. You can buy them at your grocer's—the same shortening, the same yeast, the same beautifully white flour. But probably even you are not in the habit of lavishing so much milk on your bread as goes into Southern bread. That is what makes it so rich.

Your grocer receives a fresh supply twice every day. Try this bread that everybody likes.

BISHOP AINSWORTH ATTACKS AL SMITH

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in a formal statement against the presidential candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith declared Tuesday that no one "should be hounded by the sophistry that the president cannot change the eighteenth amendment."

"The coming election will be largely a referendum on national prohibition," said the bishop in his statement, which was issued on the eve of his departure for China and Japan, where he goes to his mission field. "The wets of all parties will support him (Smith). The wets in that some dry and a few good men in the 'Bible belt' (the south) will join the notorious Menckens, large numbers of purchasable negroes and foreigners in the cities of the north and all the loose elements of American citizenship to put him in the presidential chair."

"And then if successful," the statement continued, "they will immediately assert that his election is the will of the people and appeal to all congressmen to listen to the voice of the people. Many of them will fall for it. The president himself would make the appeal; the candidate is already making it."

Declaring that Smith has fought every vestige of anti-liquor reform, the bishop went on to say that "he has done it so persistently and spectacularly that he has become the idol of all the rabid and intolerant wets of America who regard him as their most hopeful Joshua to lead them into a land that flows with beer and wine."

"The nominee is personally and by practice wet," the statement said. "He is an habitual drinker. There has been no effort to deny a statement made by the Nation last November that 'he drinks every day and the number of his cocktails and highballs is variously estimated at from four to eight.'"

"Unless as president he reforms, he would have to transport liquors to the white house in violation of the nation's law, or go constantly outside for bootleg liquor, or to the homes of friends to imbibe their preprohibition stocks. For the sake of a government to violate the law he has sworn to enforce will not promote respect for him or for law and a cocktail president of a prohibition republic will disgrace America before the intelligence of the world. Such incongruity may suit the sidewalks of New York but it affronts the sober sense of all genuine Americans."

ESTRANGED COUPLE MEET AT FUNERAL OF 2-YEAR-OLD BOY

J. W. Miller and his estranged wife met Tuesday morning at the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes company to see for the last time the body of their 2-year-old son, Harold, who died Sunday night at Grady hospital, following an illness caused by infected tonsils.

The father and mother had not seen each other for some time, and when the child was taken to the hospital in a dangerous condition, he called again and again, "mother," Mr. Miller, who is a guard at the federal pen, began a search for his wife, and appealed to newspapers to help him.

Mrs. Miller received the news and came, but she was too late, and Tuesday morning she looked down at the side of her dead boy, and sobbed over the corpse.

The father sat on one side of the chapel, the mother on the other side, and not once did they glance at each other. Each facing the same sorrow, each fighting the same battles, but the paths of the two were separated, and yet they touched Tuesday morning, brought together for a short while, by the death of their little boy, Harold.

Wright's 'Hoodoo' Mansion Is Sold Under Hammer

SCENE OF ARTIST'S TROUBLES GOES FOR DEBTS

Spring Green, Wis., July 31.—(P)—Frank Lloyd Wright's "home on the hill" was out of the famous architect's hands today.

Taliesin, the picturesque, rambling villa, overlooking the Wisconsin river valley, saw its owner in architectural achievement, unconventional love affairs and tragedy during the years it was Wright's proud possession.

Yesterday, with its owner in California and no representative of his on the grounds, it was sold to the Bank of Wisconsin, Madison, from the auction block. The bank bid $25,000 for the property on which it had loaned Wright $37,000. It was sold to satisfy a mortgage.

The architect built Taliesin, or Hillside, as it was also known, as his conception of a perfect home more than 15 years ago. It was valued at several hundred thousand dollars at the time it was constructed, and occupied land which his father and grandfather had farmed before him.

The sale, which more than a hundred curious businessmen, farmers and tourists watched, was the latest chapter in the financial troubles of the architect. A short time ago some of the valuable furnishings were sold in a similar manner under the hammer.

Wright placed the blame for his setbacks on his divorced wife, Miriam Noel Wright.

GOVERNOR OF ROTARY TALKS TO LOCAL CLUB

Alb Nix, of Athens, district governor of Rotary for Georgia, addressed the meeting of the Atlanta club Tuesday in the Capital City club, marking the celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of the local organization.

District Governor Nix, making his first official visit here since the recent establishment of the Georgia district, outlined the work to be undertaken by Rotarians during the current year and urged the cooperation of all Georgia Rotarians in the program activities.

Lou Hicks, the oldest surviving past president of the club, presided for the anniversary exercises and introduced the principal speaker.

A colorful touch was added to the ceremonies with reading of the roll of the first thirty-five members, who fifteen years ago gathered at the chamber of commerce to organize a chapter of Rotary for Atlanta. The roll was called by Howard Geldert, first secretary.

After recounting the rapid growth of Rotary and the part played in the early days by the Atlanta club, District Governor Nix discussed the work that was to be done by the Georgia district this year. Vocational service and "big brother" work with boys are the feature lights of the program. Mr. Nix said, "The greatest opportunity for Rotary to justify its existence is afforded in the movement fostering the development of American boyhood," the district governor said.

BROTHERS CAUGHT IN U. S. RUM TRAP, OFFICERS ASSERT

Trapped, it is charged, in possession of 10 gallons of whisky and three gallons of plum brandy by two prohibition agents who represented themselves as bootleggers, Iversen and Turner Moss, brothers of Rockdale county, were held to the federal grand jury Tuesday by United States Commissioner James Brown. Bond of $500 each was assessed.

Officers are looking for F. M. Moss, father of the two boys, on charges of selling a gallon of whisky to the agents on their first visit to the Moss home. Agents J. F. Urey and W. T. Derry, working out of Athens, are said to have represented themselves as bootleggers seeking 200 gallons of whisky. Told that the Moss brothers had only 10 gallons of whisky and three gallons of brandy on hand, the agents asked for the contraband and when it was produced made the seizure and arrests, officers state.

DERBY PROMOTER SEEKS TRUE BILLS

Swanee Taylor, promoter of the recent air derby at Candler field, Tuesday afternoon told the solicitor's office he would present specific evidence to the grand jury toward prosecuting persons alleged to have obtained about $10,000, the difference between estimated gate receipts at the derby and the amount Taylor says was delivered to him.

According to H. A. Strain, manager of the Brinks Express company, which operates armored motor trucks for transportation of valuables, he accepted Sunday afternoon a sealed packet, presumably money, from derby officials at Candler field, delivering it to Taylor at the Henry Grady hotel.

Taylor declared he could see little prospect of contributing to the charity funds which, in the derby's advertisements, were described as beneficiaries from the derby.

COLUMBUS DRY NET LANDS 28 PRISONERS

Columbus, Ga., July 31.—(P)—Federal prohibition agents, working with county and city officers here Tuesday night and early today, arrested 28 persons on federal warrants charging the sale of liquor. All of the defendants, 16 whites and 14 negroes, were residents of Muscogee and Harris counties. Two others, for whom federal warrants had been issued, were being sought today.

Those arrested were lodged in the county jail and were given preliminary hearings before Judge W. E. Martin, United States commissioner, of Macon, here today. $1,000 bonds being assessed in each case. Trial is to be heard on August 15 in the local federal court.

The round-up followed the work of undercover agents here for the past several weeks. Some of the defendants were alleged to have made sales of liquor to federal agents. Fifteen of the defendants had made bond late today.

MEXICAN CONGRESS HOLDS SHORT SESSION

Mexico City, July 31.—(AP)—Congress convened yesterday in the shortest extraordinary session in its history in order to declare the constitution amended in accordance with the wishes of the assassinated president-elect, General Alvaro Obregon. The task was accomplished in two hours. The amendments, which had been ratified by a majority of state legislatures, give Mexico City and other towns in the federal district a government by federal commissioners rather than by elected mayors and aldermen, reduce the size of the chamber of

HARDMAN'S 'FAILURE' ASSAILED BY RIVERS

Cordale, Ga., July 31.—(Special).—State Senator E. D. Rivers spoke here today in the courthouse to a crowded audience, replying to the opening campaign speech of Dr. Hardman delivered on Saturday.

In this speech, Senator Rivers stated that the best proof to be found of the "incompetency of Dr. Hardman as a chief executive" are found in his speech itself. Referring to Dr. Hardman's speech, Senator Rivers said:

"The most conclusive evidence of the incompetency, tactlessness and autocracy of the present chief executive is furnished by his opening campaign speech delivered in Cordale on last Saturday. From the beginning of this campaign the governor has sought to render some acceptable excuse for the failure of his administration."

"At the outset he stated that the cause of the failure of his administration was the opposition encountered with the state senate. For more than two weeks I have undertaken through a series of campaign speeches to draw the governor in the open upon the issue of whether or not his first excuse for the failure of his administration was correct and have shown the people beyond doubt that the opposition in the last senate finds its justification in the incompetency and tactlessness of the governor."

"Upon the face of his speech with reference to appropriations given to the various state institutions, it is evident to the most casual schoolboy student of civil government that the legislature, and not the governor, made the appropriations he mentions."

"Not only did the legislature make these appropriations, but it made them in the face of the opposition of the governor rather than with his help, in that the governor misfigured the revenue of the state more than two millions of dollars during the session of the legislature, and had the general assembly accepted his figures as correct our institutions would have been seriously handicapped for maintenance funds and absolutely destitute for funds for expansion."

"The opening speech of Dr. Hardman proves conclusively that he lacks both vision and virility for the accomplishment of a program of progress for the state of Georgia. "My campaign shall be conducted throughout just as it was launched, upon a specific constructive program of development and progress for the whole state. Better schools, modern connected system of highways, consolidation of departments of state government to fix the responsibility, prevent overlapping and duplication, reduce cost of government, convenient distribution of automobile license tags, cooperation between the legislative and executive branches of the government and the various departments thereof, election by the people of the presiding officer of the senate to be actually lieutenant governor, the functioning of the heads of departments along with the governor as a coordinating board for the development of the state and its natural resources, intelligent revision of the banking laws, increase in amount and prompt monthly payment of Confederate pensions, abandonment of the valorem tax and relief of real estate from some of the heavy burdens of taxation, better working conditions, constructive banking and advertising publicity, will hold its annual convention in Utica, N. BUILDING IN ROME BADLY DAMAGED IN MACHINE BLAST

Rome, Ga., July 31.—(AP)—A terrific explosion in a shoe repair shop here today damaged a downtown building and caused excitement in the business district, but injured no one. A gas-heating device in a piece of machinery in Miller's shoe shop exploded, blew out a plate glass window in the front of the building, and hurled pieces of the machine through the ceiling and floor.

BILL OF EXCEPTIONS IN FERTILIZER CASE SIGNED IN M'RAE

McRae, Ga., July 31.—(Special).—Echol Graham, presiding judge of the Oconee circuit, Monday night signed a bill of exceptions in the case of the short term fertilizer inspectors against Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, which sends this case to the supreme court of the state of Georgia. A large number of these inspectors were appointed by J. J. Brown before he left the office, and upon the installation of Mr. Talmadge in office, he dismissed them, stating that the state did not require their services. Suit was filed; and in the first round the inspectors were successful. Those matters which involved a question of fact were left for a jury decision, and were scheduled to be tried in the October term of the Telfair superior court. This bill of exceptions, which takes the case to the supreme court, will delay all jury trials until the decision of the supreme court has been handed down.

157 shaves in the big tube

Men told us that they would pay almost any price if only they could get a cream which really made shaving pleasant instead of painful. Now we offer such a lather-maker, compounded of costly ingredients. Luxurious and amazingly different, it is the perfected result of 26 months of research and study.

Yet the savings of great production permit a price approved by even the most thrifty shavers. The big white tube contains 118 inches of rich cream, more than enough for 157 shaves. That makes it a five-months' supply for 50¢; or the utmost in shaving comfort for only 10¢ a month. Men who appreciate quality are in greater numbers daily asking for the 50¢ Listerine Shaving Cream at good drug and department stores.

A Shaving Surprise!

Velvety film of glycerine ends all razor pain

YOUR contented face after shaving will prove how much this brilliant new idea in shaving creams means to men with tough beards and tender skins.

That tiny film of cosmetic lubricant at the cutting line of each hair protects the skin and relieves the friction. With the grain or against it, up or down, there is no rawness or burning, no tightness or drawn feeling. And the healing ingredients of Listerine defeat the chance of infection.

It is the cream that men have long awaited. It settles your shaving problem for life. A pinch of it, three-quarters of an inch or less, brushes up into a cooling cloud of soothing, moisture-laden lather. Just try it once, and you will thank Listerine chemists for having taken the torture out of shaving in such a scientific way. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo.

BANDITS GET $25,000 AND MAKE ESCAPE

Grand Forks, N. D., July 31.—(AP)—North Dakota officers today searched for bandits who took $25,000 from Winnipeg, Minn., bank messengers, fled across the international boundary and disarmed two pursuing officers near Lawton, N. D., yesterday.

After shattering the windshield of the pursuing car, three of the four bandits covered the officers, disarmed them, disconnected the ignition wires of their car and took five gallons of gasoline to enable them to continue their flight.

Five Canadian officers were in the neighborhood of Lawton today aiding the search for the four men, the last trace of whom was had when they halted a car in which were William Henneberry, United States immigration inspector, and Lester Edgington, Provincial policeman.

CAPONE IS LINKED IN GANG SLAYING

ceeded to New York. On July 1 Er. Yale, who had broken with Capone, was seated in his automobile in a quiet Brooklyn street when bullets from a machine gun, a shotgun and a magazine pistol in the hands of occupants of a passing car killed him. The weapons later were found in an abandoned automobile bearing Tennessee license plates.

Bought 12 Guns. Before he left for New York with Chief Reeve, dispatches from Miami said today, Henderson admitted buying 12 guns for Capone "as a favor." He said that he never knew why Capone wanted the guns. Police attention was first turned to Florida when it was discovered that one of the weapons with which Yale was killed had the same number as one of the guns purchased for Capone by Henderson at a Miami pawnshop.

The first time Capone went to Miami he was asked to leave by the police. He returned, however, and while staying at a hotel managed by the young man. Through Henderson he was able to buy a luxurious island home but Henderson felt such public disapproval directed at him for the assistance he had given the racketeer that he left Miami and went to Asheville, N. C.

Dispatches from Florida today reported that Capone could not be found at his home there and that caretakers said he had returned with his family to Chicago.

HENDERSON SON OF FORMER MAYOR

Miami, Fla., July 31.—(AP)—Admissions credited to Parker A. Henderson, Jr., member of a socially prominent family here, that he bought 12 guns "for a favor" to the Chicago racketeer were revealed by local authorities today coincident with the questioning of Henderson by New York police investigators.

ing the slaying of Frank Vale, Brooklyn gangster and enemy of Capone. Henderson, the son of a former Miami mayor, who was said to have inherited a substantial part of his large estate, went voluntarily to New York with Police Chief Sam Reeve, of Miami, after making a signed statement to metropolitan detectives who extended their inquiries to this city.

Gun Is Traced. They were said to have developed that one of the guns was the one the automobile from which Vale was shot down had been traced to Capone.

Described by the police as Capone's financial and real representative in Miami, Henderson was quoted as having said that Capone requested him to purchase the guns and that he obtained them in a local pawnshop. Henderson was said to have related that he returned to find the weapons safe to the gun store, which he said was "the deal was O. K."

Other details of his written statement to the New York police were not made.

Henderson Agent. It was through Henderson that Capone several months ago purchased an expensive estate on exclusive Palm island at Del Mar, Calif., which led to vigorous protests by residents in the vicinity over the gangster's entry into that section. Here he set up his residence, with a son and two brothers and a corps of bodyguards after converting the house into a veritable fortress by installing a heavy iron gate to the entrance, surrounded by high concrete walls and its only approach is over a narrow bridge or by boat.

Remains In Home. The erstwhile Chicago beer baron rarely left his home at night and on his frequent daylight excursions in the city, rode in an expensive limousine with a chauffeur and one or more bodyguards.

Information elicited from the caretaker revealed today that Capone had left there suddenly last week for an unannounced destination, followed by his wife, son and brothers, who were reported to have gone to Chicago. The police said they had received a report that Capone was in Chicago, one of his old haunts.

day morning, they will complete the journey back to Palo Alto by automobile.

This will give Mr. Hoover a full day to study and revise his acceptance speech which is to be delivered at the notification ceremony at Stanford university stadium one week from next Saturday. He hopes to have a completed copy ready no later than Saturday.

This five-day outing is the only one which Mr. Hoover has in mind on this visit to his old home. He probably will leave Palo Alto on August 25 on his return trip to Washington via Los Angeles, Albuquerque, Kansas City, Cedar Rapids and his birthplace at West Branch, Ia.

While the plan of campaign after his return to Washington has not yet been definitely decided upon, it is regarded as almost certain that he will make some speeches in the east and will visit several of the border states including Oklahoma, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Golf association, and Hall Davis, president of the West End Business Men's club, were leaders in the effort to establish an 18-hole course on the newly-acquired land.

Mrs. Johnson's Letter. Mrs. Johnson's letter, which the committee received, follows: To the Mayor and General Council, City of Atlanta, Atlanta, Ga., Gentlemen: In view of the opposition of Mr. Drumm, Scott of the Municipal Golf association, and Mr. Hall Davis of the West End Business Men's club, to the plan approved by the park board, which provides for a recreational park and a nine-hole golf course for the John A. White park, I am writing to you to express my opinion that the plan is a most desirable one and that the city should accept it.

At a meeting of the West End Woman's club on May 23, 1928, a resolution was unanimously passed asking the park board to take under consideration the proposed change, in order that the citizens in general might be benefited instead of only those who play golf, as in our opinion the social, recreational and health values of athletic activities constitute essential justification. We feel that the golf course here over-emphasized the need of an eight-hole golf course in this section, looking at it from a purely selfish standpoint, and forgetting the many thousands who do not play golf, but who need some form of recreation.

If an eighteen-hole golf course is so essential to the city's prosperity, why not purchase the necessary additional acreage, which is available adjoining the present park, and in this way please both sides of the controversy?

The tract purchased for the John A. White park consists of one hundred and seven acres. We are only asking for about fifteen acres, thereby leaving ninety-two acres for the golf course. The Cascade and Huff road frontage, which would take the park from the children's playground, nine tennis courts, two baseball diamonds, picnic grounds, athletic fields and grandstand, would at the same time preserve the beautiful forest on the Cascade and Huff roads, which front would be cut down in the event the park was used for golf purposes only. It is pitifully destroying the wonderful work wrought by nature during a period of over a hundred years, and nature's wonderful work will have been in vain.

It is one of the purposes of the West End Woman's club to protect, preserve and perpetuate as a pleasure for the future generations the beautiful, grand, and imposing natural beauties of the city, and to protect the city from the ruthless hand of selfishness and commercialism.

We are aware that law views such matters in large part from the standpoint of necessity or convenience; we also know that necessity is only relative, and that the selfish material interests of the few should not outweigh the less substantial, but no less real necessity, right and God given privilege of the millions of today and tomorrow will lose and protect the forests.

Protest Spoilation of Forest. We solemnly and earnestly protest against the threatened spoilation of this beautiful forest. We urge upon the mayor and general council the self-evident fact that they are trustees of the public, charged with the preservation of such works of nature, wherever subject to their jurisdiction.

Among other reasons why we want the park and golf course combined is the fact that this rapidly growing section needs transportation out Cascade road, which has been promised when the population justifies it. The park would make this necessary. If the park is in need of a golf course, the golfers will ride to and from the course in their automobiles and still the possibility of getting transportation out Cascade road, which will be detrimental instead of beneficial to the section.

Whenever the question of parks for West End comes up, there always comes up Huff road, which is nothing more than a playground for the pupils of Peoples Street school. The park at the Huff road and Huff club was leased from the L. & N. railroad for five years in 1927 by the city through the influence of the West End Woman's club and we have only three years more on this. Money park has a playground for children, one ball ground and a swimming pool. The money all-around park to this section is Great park.

It has been said that this is "not central." We wonder if Belmont and Great park are "central" when they were first opened up.

The West End Woman's club will further in every way possible the efforts of the park board of the city of Atlanta in serving the masses in recreational and athletic activities, and ask that the mayor and general council give active cooperation to the park board, and stress the importance of its work.

We will appreciate your interest in behalf of the wishes of the majority of the citizens in this section of the city.

Respectfully,
MRS. CHRISTINE JOHNSON,
President West End Woman's Club,
Atlanta, Ga., July 30, 1928.

Atlanta Police Aiding in Search For Paul Briggs

Atlanta police and citizens have been asked to cooperate in the search for Paul H. Briggs, Macon real estate employee, who has been missing from his home in that city for nearly two weeks.

He is described as 35 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighing 160 pounds, and having light brown hair.

Briggs dropped out of sight in Macon on the afternoon of July 18. His automobile was found at Dames Ferry, a small town 12 miles south of Macon. Early theories that he had committed suicide were dissipated when his body was not found by police who dragged the river.

Relatives say that Briggs acts and talks strangely at times, and they state that it is more than likely that his mind is affected, as he had no motive for leaving his home. Investigation has disclosed that his finances were in good shape, and his home life was happy.

Anyone who can furnish information as to his whereabouts is asked to communicate with Chief of Police Beavers of Atlanta, or with his relatives, Harry Briggs and Russell Briggs, of Macon.

G. O. P. IS ASSAILED AS BOSS RIDDEN

Denver, Colo., July 31.—(AP)—Garrison Shafroth, Denver attorney, in the keynote speech before the democratic state assembly here today, assailed the republican party as "the boss ridden big business-owned party in which the common people are without representation."

"If big business controlled the government in 1912, it owns it in 1928," he said.

Amid the cheers of the 1,351 delegates, Shafroth declared "the eighteenth amendment of the constitution is here to stay, but Governor Alfred E. Smith will lead the hosts of democracy to victory in November."

"Personally I am for prohibition and I think the eighteenth amendment is here to stay," he said, "but prohibition is no more an issue in this campaign than it was in 1908. It merely is a smoke screen being raised by the republican party to cover up its shortcomings during the last eight years."

CENTRAL OFFERS EXCURSION RATES TO ATLANTA AUG. 4

The Central of Georgia railway will operate popular excursions from Savannah and from Louisville to Atlanta on August 4, it was announced Tuesday by T. J. Stewart, district passenger agent of the road. Special rates will be offered on these trains, and it is expected that a thousand passengers from Savannah, Louisville and intermediate points will take advantage of the unusual travel opportunity.

Engineer Drops Dead After Singing Song for Friends

Montreal, Que., July 31.—(AP)—Shortly after concluding the singing of the prologue to "Pagliacci," Robert Stevenson, chief engineer of the Canadian Pacific freighter Beaverford, dropped dead in the cabin of his ship. He had been entertaining several other engineers and officers.

TWO GIRLS DROWN IN FUTILE EFFORT TO SAVE BROTHER

Elizabeth City, N. C., July 31.—(AP)—Three children of A. O. Ownley, widely known citizen of Pasquotank county, were drowned this afternoon while wading in Little river at Nixon-ton, eight miles southwest of here. The children were: Emily 14, Maggie 8 and Clark, 5 years of age. The youngest ventured beyond his depth and the others were drowned when they attempted to rescue him.

Miss Grace Ownley, 18, another daughter, narrowly escaped a like fate when she went to the rescue of the others. She was dragged to safety by Mrs. W. P. Newbold, fifth member of the party, after she had twice sunk under the water.

The NEW CLUB BROUGHAM A Luxurious Car for Five Passengers

This is the same automobile which, a few weeks ago, was announced as a value that dwarfs anything in the fine car market.

That being true almost yesterday, think of the amazing money's worth that must be present in the Club Brougham today... at $2475, the lowest price in Pierce-Arrow history!

No detail has been changed—not the smallest refinement neglected. The car is every inch a Pierce-Arrow.

New and sparkling of line, rich in color combinations, without an ounce of excess weight. Easy to handle, quick to accelerate, fleet beyond exaggerated need. And remarkably easy of maintenance.

Pierce-Arrow proposes no compromise with the principles which have made it America's finest motor car for more than a quarter century.

The terms upon which the new Club Brougham is offered have been reduced to the utmost in simplicity.

Your present car is likely to have sufficient trade-in value to cover the first payment—possibly more.

Here are the New Low Prices

Note that the reductions are as great as $600 on some models—resulting in prices lower than ever before known to cars of Pierce-Arrow manufacture!

HARRIS ON FIRING LINE.

Senator William J. Harris, of Georgia, the senior member, and the ranking minority member on the senate appropriations committee, has made it unmistakably clear that he is supporting and will vote for the democratic national nominees without the scratching of a name.

He is this year, as he has always been, and always will be, a full-fledged 100 per cent democrat.

Senator George had made his position equally as clear, and declared before the Houston convention that in the event he should not receive the nomination for president he would support and speak in the campaign for his party's choice.

Although Governor Smith was overwhelmingly nominated on the first ballot, by a vote greater than the required two-thirds majority of all delegates, the Georgian received the second highest vote of the several presented to the convention.

So far as we know, every member of the house delegation in congress is supporting the democratic ticket wholeheartedly. Our own district representative, L. J. Steele, has made his position clear. Representative Crisp, of the third district, one of the most influential members in that body from any state, is prosecuting a vigorous speaking campaign for the democratic party.

The position of Senator Harris was never questioned. He has been a leader in the prohibition cause all of his life. He is a prohibitionist in practice. He was signally honored by the late President Wilson, but he voted in the senate to override his veto of the Volstead act. It did not create a ripple in their close relationship. The president appreciated his courage of conviction.

Senator Harris knows that the election of Governor Smith to the presidency will have no bearing upon the prohibition issue, except that under a democratic administration there will be better enforcement. It could scarcely be worse than it has been under eight years of republican administration. He frankly declares that so-called enforcement today is a farce.

Georgia's senior senator will be heartily commended for his statement issued Monday. It rings true to the faith of the fathers.

KEEPING OUT OF POLITICS.

Cardinal Sincero, of Rome, will sail for Canada on August 9 to inaugurate the Cathedral of Montreal. He desired to visit the United States where he has many friends. According to Rome dispatches, however, the pope has instructed him not to do so. The dispatch says:

"The pontiff does not wish the cardinal to visit American territory during the presidential campaign lest his presence be interpreted as a desire on the part of the holy see to influence the presidential election. Pope Pius wants to keep entirely out of internal questions in the United States."

Thus is set at rest the oft-repeated statements to the contrary made by those who do not know the truths and refuse to learn them—that is, that the vatican is taking no part and will take no part in the campaign or the election.

If the cardinal should visit this country, when at its very threshold, the intolerant element would have seized upon it to charge church interference and intervention, although his visit would have been of purely a social and recreational nature.

ANOTHER TECH BOY SCORES.

"Eddie" Hamm, the great Georgia Tech broad jumper, jumped into a world's championship, and world fame, at the Olympic stadium in Amsterdam Tuesday.

His conquest over space was one of the marvels of the 1928 Olympic games—25 feet, 4 1/2 inches, or 7.73 meters.

Hamm is an Arkansan. He distinguished himself at Tech in every athletic activity, but broad jumping was his specialty. Back in 1925, as a senior, he had an eye on the world's broad jump championship. He was in the Olympics then.

Since that time he has practiced speed, and "speed is what did it," he said.

Incidentally, in reaching the world goal in a foreign land, in games participated in by the best athletes of the world, he has carried the colors of the great Georgia institution to new heights of glory. It was a masterful accomplishment by a brilliant young man, and a clean, popular sportsman.

PREACHERS IN PARTY POLITICS.

The wisdom of the advice given by Dr. John D. Mell, of the Baptist church, and Bishop Warren A. Candler, of the Methodist church, that the churches and the preachers avoid any and all participation in party politics is becoming daily more evidently wise.

Ex-Congressman J. H. Small, a distinguished democrat and a Methodist in North Carolina, challenges Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon, one of the sponsors of the recent meeting in Asheville, to discuss the matter on the stump.

And why not? If preachers are to discuss the issues involved in party politics at all, the stump, and not houses of worship, is the proper place for such discussions.

Multitudes of the members of the churches object to the use of their places of worship for political harangues. Most Methodists do not approve of Bishop Mouzon's political activities, even at Asheville. Small does not. It is an invasion of their rights of worship for the doctored bishop to bring the discussions of the hustings into the temples which the Methodists have erected as houses of prayer.

Political discussions in houses dedicated to the worship of Almighty God are sally out of place, to say nothing stronger. They inevitably divide churches and communities into hostile camps, hinder the cause of religion, and do much other harm of a serious nature. And they yield nothing of good to offset the evils that result from them.

And now Bishop James Cannon also, another sponsor of the Asheville meeting and its campaign manager, is accused of seeking and obtaining funds for his political campaign from the republican party's bag. He is quoted as saying that such money "was not tainted, and that all money looked alike" to him. Let us hope that the report of his words is incorrect; but it is doubtless true that money from the republican treasury sent for the purpose of wrecking the democratic party in the south will not be rejected by him.

What an unseemly situation has thus arisen already from the ill-advised political activities of these bishops! And what more will they not do by their entrance into party politics?

We say "party politics" to point out an important distinction. A movement for prohibition, apart from all party complications, is quite different from a heated campaign between political parties in which many other issues are involved.

It is well known that Bishop Candler and Dr. Mell are prohibitionists. No one in Georgia has been more faithful and zealous than they. But they have never entered party politics on behalf of prohibition or any other cause.

Bishop Candler refused to have anything to do with the campaign in Georgia some years ago when the populist party put a prohibition plank into its platform with the view of defeating the nominees of the democratic party. The bishop then expressed the same views which he has embodied in a recent article; and the outcome of that campaign was not helpful to the cause of prohibition in Georgia as Bishop Candler predicted would be the case.

If the Baptist and Methodist ministers in Georgia heed the counsel of Dr. Mell and Bishop Candler, their great denominations will be saved from damage and embarrassment.

If they follow such leadership as that of Bishops Mouzon and Cannon they will find themselves involved in a regrettable mess in the end.

We have too much confidence in the wisdom and piety of the overwhelming majority of the Baptist and Methodist ministers and members in Georgia to think for a moment that they will follow the unwise leadership of the bishops who are already forced into positions which are far from creditable to them.

Of course, the church leaders stand in parties as much, or in politics generally, but were impelled to their course by the "moral issue" of equal civil and political rights for the newly freed slaves. Thus today these four southern bishops insist that they are concerned with the "moral issue" of prohibition. But in one case, as in the other, it means the active participation of the church in party politics, and on that subject it would be interesting to know if the Southern Methodists of today hold to the views of their forbears.

The action of these four bishops is a complete vindication of the action of the bishops at the conference of the northern church at Chicago in 1897 or 1898. If these of today are acting

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

La Nuit.

Nothing has given the French boulevard chronicles so much joy of late as did the announcement from New York that the night life of Gotham is flourishing in genuine Babylonian style. The comparison made between night club hostesses and Japanese geisha girls by someone delights the French and the witty "echoes" and "chroniques" are full of all sorts of observations. "Eh bien," remarks one writer, "you can't always come to Montmartre." And another proceeds to compare a solemn refutation of the notion that Paris is becoming Americanized. "The contrary is true," he exclaims. "America is developing a French taste for gaiety and sensuality. We have learned a great deal from the Americans. But our dancing and cabarets are closing by the dozens. Our young people leave the city every opportunity they get to go to the country, to the mountains, to the sea. The Americans learned some things from us, which were... not so good."

It is this way this way in New York, the day after tomorrow, when Parisians in search of a little diversion and gaiety will have to cross the ocean," remarks still another commentator.

Coffee.

Brazilian deputies complained of the coffee that was served in their congressional sessions, and made their own. Brazilian deputies ought to know good coffee; Brazil produces two-thirds of the 2,400,000,000 pounds gathered each year. But apparently not all Brazilians know how to make good coffee, else the deputies would not have revolted. Of all the gastronomic art is proceeding in the capital, the easiest yet the most neglected, remarks a Paris gourmet. Whence did coffee come? There are all kinds of stories. Some Moslems say that the angel Gabriel revealed the properties of the coffee plant to Mahomet. One story says that a shepherd in upper Egypt noticed that after his sheep had eaten the berries of a certain plant they did not sleep at night but were restless and wakeful. He communicated upon the matter to a priest who had the "vision" of an efficiency expert. His fellow-priests were in the habit of falling asleep during the midnight prayers; after he had stewed the strange new berries and administered draughts of the potent brew, the monks were awake all night but they had trouble in going to sleep the next day. The coffee-drinking habit spread all over the world, and the monks were the first to use it. In the 16th century, then, allowed it, forbad it again, and so on. The leaders thunders that "whoever drank coffee would awaken the world with a visage blacker than its own dress."

Coming Events, Etc.

Some months ago it became known that the small palace Unter den Linden, where the monarchs and a simple man of life of the first German kaiser caused him to live in Berlin, was being thoroughly renovated and in particular supplied with the bathroom which it lacked. In the settlement between Prussia and the Hohenzollerns, the palace had fallen to Prussia, and the work of bringing it up to date in its sanitary appointments was supervised by his second son, Prince Hermann. It was stated, intended to make use of it during his frequent passages through this city. According to Vorwarts, the editor of the socialist paper, it was used merely as a resting place on journeys between Dorn and Silesia, and is to become a center of propaganda for the revolution. The ex-husband of his abdicated throne. It appears that one of the chief tailors of Berlin has just received from Wilhelm II. orders for gala liveries for a numerous retinue of male servants, who are to be engaged for the palace and who are to serve at a series of receptions to be given by the prince.

Church and Politics

In the South

(From the New York World)

The action of four southern bishops of the Methodist church in declaring that the church, as such, must actively participate in politics in behalf of prohibition must recall to the minds of many southerners the attitude of their section toward the church in politics in the days immediately following the war between the states.

At that time the Northern M. E. church was intensely partisan republican on the side of the radical group led by Thad Stevens, which very soon became the ruling group. It was just as intensely hostile to the southern people, and it made no secret of its position. Perhaps it never went so far as when, at the beginning of the impeachment trial of Andrew Johnson, it went on record as favoring the conviction of the president; and it is thought that one of the wavering senators from West Virginia, who was finally persuaded to vote for conviction, was influenced by a bishop of the church, and one of the leaders of its northern branch.

In those days the southern leaders and people had pronounced ideas about the propriety of converting the church into a partisan political machine. Of course, the church leaders stood in parties as much, or in politics generally, but were impelled to their course by the "moral issue" of equal civil and political rights for the newly freed slaves. Thus today these four southern bishops insist that they are concerned with the "moral issue" of prohibition. But in one case, as in the other, it means the active participation of the church in party politics, and on that subject it would be interesting to know if the Southern Methodists of today hold to the views of their forbears.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL

Pick-Ups in Politics From the Old Parade Ground at the Capital

Washington, July 31.—(Special.)—Respected enough to be transferred from the veterans' hospital in Kansas City to the Walter Reed here at the capital, I feel moved to sing "Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground." It is being acutely realized that the party of regulation, arbitrary in the hands of party administrators such as state and federal judges, is being locked on dog collar, the key of which is in the hands of the party committee—irresponsible and autocratic—and the primary plan will speedily go to the junk pile. Genuine democracy in this free republic cannot exist under a system so loosely constructed and so oppositely constructed as appears in the present campaign, forcing millions of voters to become political independents.

In South Carolina and in Texas, for instance, one who votes for primary for county dog catcher becomes bound to vote in the regular election for the same ticket from dog chaser to president of the United States, or else take the penalty of being cast out of the party of his choice. In Missouri, California, one has freedom to vote as he pleases in the primary and then vote as he pleases in the regular election. It is riding the people to its own destruction. The women voters are especially rebellious against the restriction of their vote to a single ticket. It is the primary system that will help powerfully to throw the primary system into the discard.

What is the object of all this presentment of the information that Hoover eats four or five bags of cornbread in his daily luncheon and consumes three bags of peanuts during his working hours? Is the first fact to be used as bait for voters in the corn belt and the other to attract the voters of the growing south? They certainly listen good to the garbled views of citizens and corroborate the claim that Hoover is 100 per cent American.

Everybody claims to be waiting for the acceptance speeches, but as a matter of fact nobody cares what those speeches will contain. The information that Hoover has made choice between Smith and Hoover, independent of the party platform or what those gentlemen may say, is the only thing that counts. Ain't it that way?

were chosen from the city at large, only 35 being representatives of the city agencies.

The move toward reorganization will be continued at a meeting of the enlarged directorate board next Tuesday afternoon at the office of the secretary of the city.

A non-partisan committee will present names of Atlanta leaders for consideration for the nomination of the city of the chest, and two vice presidents of the chest, and also will elect a board, which also will elect a secretary of the chest to succeed Roy P. Gates.

Frank Miller, who has served for 18 months as service secretary of the chest, will be elected to the high record as an organizer and social welfare executive in Knoxville, Tenn., has been designated to serve as the chest's first formal election next Tuesday.

Mr. Miller presented to the annual meeting of the chest a total of 111,803 families and individuals, an average of 18,467 a month. This service was divided among the groups as follows:

Family service and relief, 40,124; child caring, 6,875; individual, 9,085; character building, 1,200; and religious, 1,200. The chest also has a total of 111,803 families and individuals, an average of 18,467 a month. This service was divided among the groups as follows:

votes and present conditions it can be shown that Alabama, Florida and Tennessee are just as little likely to become Hooverized in November.

The various interpretations of the rights of voters under state primary election laws are intensifying dissatisfaction with the laws. It is being acutely realized that the party of regulation, arbitrary in the hands of party administrators such as state and federal judges, is being locked on dog collar, the key of which is in the hands of the party committee—irresponsible and autocratic—and the primary plan will speedily go to the junk pile. Genuine democracy in this free republic cannot exist under a system so loosely constructed and so oppositely constructed as appears in the present campaign, forcing millions of voters to become political independents.

In South Carolina and in Texas, for instance, one who votes for primary for county dog catcher becomes bound to vote in the regular election for the same ticket from dog chaser to president of the United States, or else take the penalty of being cast out of the party of his choice. In Missouri, California, one has freedom to vote as he pleases in the primary and then vote as he pleases in the regular election. It is riding the people to its own destruction. The women voters are especially rebellious against the restriction of their vote to a single ticket. It is the primary system that will help powerfully to throw the primary system into the discard.

What is the object of all this presentment of the information that Hoover eats four or five bags of cornbread in his daily luncheon and consumes three bags of peanuts during his working hours? Is the first fact to be used as bait for voters in the corn belt and the other to attract the voters of the growing south? They certainly listen good to the garbled views of citizens and corroborate the claim that Hoover is 100 per cent American.

Everybody claims to be waiting for the acceptance speeches, but as a matter of fact nobody cares what those speeches will contain. The

ATLANTA TRADE
LEADS DISTRICT

In spite of the fact that this is a "presidential year," Atlanta is in a prosperous business condition, according to the monthly review of business conditions made public Tuesday by the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank. Atlanta, for instance, led all cities in the sixth federal reserve district in the increase of net sales of department stores, as compared with the corresponding month of the previous year.

Five large Atlanta department stores reporting to the reserve bank showed increases of 13 per cent over the corresponding period last year, while the percentage of increase for the entire district was only 2.9 per cent.

In the district at large the volume of retail trade declined seasonally as compared to the previous month. The heaviest decline was reported in the retail stores of New Orleans, La. Time deposits in member banks are greater than at any other period on record, according to the report. Commercial failures for June and early July were less in liability than for the corresponding period the previous year.

Building permits in Atlanta increased to $1,124,000 as compared to $946,000 the corresponding period last year. This was a greater gain than was shown by any other city in the district with the exception of Savannah.

High Pressure
Area Bringing
Nice Weather

More of Tuesday's delightful brand of fair weather is forecast for today by C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist. The high pressure area which was reported Monday over the Ohio valley has moved to the Atlantic states, and still has control over the matter of Atlanta's weather, the weather bureau announced.

Temperatures today will continue moderate, or about the same as those recorded Tuesday. Mr. von Herrmann expects a minimum of 70 and a maximum of 86 today.

OF NORTH GEORGIA

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Tuesday was back at his desk following a week-end trip to Lakemont, where he was the guest of Mrs. Rutherford Lipscomb, and served as one of the judges of the water pagant which followed the boat races on Lake Rabun.

He praised north Georgia mountains declaring "All Georgians should know more of the mountain country of their state because it is unsurpassed for its beauty and is an ideal vacation land."

HUDSON, M'DANIEL
FAMILIES REUNITE
AT TUCKER CHURCH

Tucker, Ga., July 31.—(Special).—Friends and relatives from all over Georgia, as well as from distant points, including Texas, Alabama and Florida, gathered Sunday at the Fellowship Baptist church near here, to participate in the annual family reunion of the Hudson and McDaniel families of Gwinnett and DeKalb counties.

Congressman Steele made the principal address before the gathering, after which a picnic dinner was served in the open churchyard. John W. Weeks and the Rev. J. M. Livsey also made short talks in the afternoon. Selection of officers for the next year resulted in John L. Hudson, of Atlanta, being chosen president; C. A. McDaniel, of Norcross, vice president, and Mrs. Eva Huff, of Atlanta, secretary.

WHITE RETRACTS PART OF CHARGE

New York, July 31.—(AP)—William Allen White, Kansas editor, withdrew Tuesday his charges against Governor Smith's legislative record so far as bills governing gambling and prostitution were concerned because, he said, he did not wish to question the motive of the democratic presidential nominee.

While allowing his contention that Governor Smith had consistently voted for the saloon to stand, Mr. White said of his other charges: "I could not in good conscience press this issue, realizing that Governor Smith, whom I greatly admire for his many high qualities, feels that my charges question the purity of his motives which always should be granted in any political controversy."

Statement Issued.
Mr. White said in his statement: "Yesterday, talking to Walter Lippmann, of the World, a friend of Governor Smith and of mine for many years, I learned that Governor Smith was deeply aggrieved at the charge I made with protecting gambling and prostitution in his assembly record. I can understand, after considering what Mr. Lippmann said, that the governor in casting those votes against those reform bills might honestly have felt that the bills were unconstitutional, or were not enforceable, or infringed upon personal liberty or encouraged police blackmail."

Saloon Not Included.
"But Governor Smith certainly is entitled to fair treatment. I have never consciously questioned any man's motives and so this morning before the morning papers have come and before I know what, if any, reply Governor Smith has made to my statement of yesterday, I desire to withdraw the charges formally insofar as they affect his votes on gambling and prostitution but not his position as to the saloon."

"On the question of the menace of Tammany and of Governor Smith's Tammany record for the open saloon, the whole issue of the campaign is coming."

"Organized, protected prostitution

FRANCE, ENGLAND AGREE ON NAVIES

Paris, July 31.—(AP)—Questions on which the United States and Great Britain did not agree at the three-power naval conference at Geneva appear to be involved in the naval compromise agreement which has been reached between France and Great Britain.

The British conception of the size of cruisers is understood to be an important part of the agreement. The size of guns is left out although this question appears conditioned by the size of the cruisers.

No Annoyance to U. S.
The negotiations were brought about by frequent mention of American naval conditions, but both sides are described as endeavoring to avoid anything which might annoy the government of the United States. Some of the questions expected from Washington on the clause relating to the size of cruisers, both the British and the American conceptions for small cruisers rather than large ones. The agreement in no way touches the size or length of line of capital ships.

The text of the agreement already has been dispatched to the American government. The French superior council of national defense approved the final draft of the plan two weeks ago and it was initiated in London last Saturday.

France Explains Views.
The foreign office tonight made public a note explaining that the French and British governments began a search for an acceptable compromise to continue the work that broke down when the powers found themselves in disagreement over the question of the League of Nations' preparatory commission for disarmament.

"The part of France," tonight's communiqué says, "the superior council of national defense assembled June 13 after having taken cognizance of the results of conversations with the Foreign Minister Briand, and M. Paul-Boncour (chairman of the foreign affairs committee) participated as well as complementary propositions brought forward by Georges Leygues (minister of marine) to serve as a basis for an eventual accord and the council issued the necessary instructions for continuance of the negotiations. It is these negotiations which have ended under conditions fully safeguarding our national interests, France and England have the firmer bond which other naval powers will be able to communicate to the world."

BY BAD ENGINE
East Vaughn, N. M., July 31.—(AP) Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who landed here last night because of engine trouble, probably will be delayed here two or three days until motor parts can be sent to him from Santa Barbara, Cal. He took a flight from Los Angeles about noon yesterday.

A leaking connection was allowing water to get into the oil of the engine, Colonel Lindbergh said. The parts probably will be brought from Santa Barbara to Tucson or Albuquerque and then sent from there by express, he said.

WITHHOLDS NAMES
IN PATRONAGE CASE
Tusculum, Ala., July 31.—(AP)—While reiterating his belief that corruption entered into the filling of the Tusculum postmastership in 1924, Dr. J. H. Cooper, a physician and an unsuccessful applicant for the position, refused to divulge the names of the two "Birmingham republicans" who asked him for "donations" in return for the inclusion of his name in the list of eligibles for the postmastership.

Cooper said he would tell all he knew to the senate investigating committee if it saw fit to probe the local case. He added it would be a breach of etiquette if he revealed the names of the men whom he said attempted to bribe him, before the committee investigated.

PROSECUTOR, LOST IN NORTH CANADA, FOUND BY TRAPPER
Port Arthur, Ont., July 31.—(AP)—Found by a trapper after he had wandered aimlessly for four weeks in the wilds of the Red Lake district and taken to a hospital by airplane, John Helmer, 58-year-old veteran prospector, was on his way to his home in Duluth today.

Helmer and a partner beached a canoe on Nungesser lake while each went inland, arranging to meet in an hour. The partner returned, but Helmer became lost.

John Kieness, a trapper, found him on July 21, almost frozen and starved to death. He was covered with insect bites and his garments had been torn to such an extent by the brush that they offered no protection from the cold.

TWO BANDITS ROB
MESSENGER OF $2,800
AND MAKE ESCAPE
New Orleans, La., July 31.—(AP)—Two bandits in a speedy run in an automobile shot the rear tires off a taxi cab here today and after boarding the vehicle robbed Edward Harrell, messenger for the United States Industrial Alcohol company, of $2,800. Harrell reported to police when they arrived upon the scene.

Harrell was en route from the company's bank to its plant on the outskirts of the city when his cab was overtaken. Both Harrell and the cab driver escaped injury from the flying bullets.

DR. T. F. ALBERCROMBIE ADDRESSES KIWANIANS
Dr. Thomas F. Albercrombie, secretary of the Georgia state board of health, was the principal speaker at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club Tuesday afternoon. The Kiwanians were entertained by "Fiddling John" Carson, winner of the state violin contest, who played several enjoyable numbers.

Three new members were admitted to the club at the Tuesday meeting. They are Sam M. Carson, J. Harry Alexander and Dr. B. M. Cline. Delegates to attend the state Kiwanis convention at Athens in October were also selected. Arthur W. Falkenburg and Forest Traylor being named.

Boy, 10, Kills Infant Left In His Care

Montreal, Que., July 31.—(AP)—A 10-year-old boy was in St. John's jail today charged with murder of a four-month-old infant left in his care.

Roland Cousineau, employed by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roch Sorel, as a farm hand, testified at an inquest that he killed the child because it cried.

He said he took the baby by the legs and swung it around his head and struck its head against the back of a chair. Also he hit it with a whetstone.

The parents were at work in the fields at the time.

POSTAL DEFICIT SURE, NEW SAYS

Washington, July 31.—(United News)—A deficit of $100,000,000 faces the postoffice department this fiscal year because of the interstate commerce commission's order of Monday, granting railroads an increase of 10 per cent on mail carried for the department, Postmaster General New said today.

New intimated that because of this tremendous increase, he would be forced to raise postal rates on fourth-class, or parcel post matter.

The postoffice department, by the commission's order, will have to pay out an additional $15,000,000 a year, New said, and pointed out that because the order is retroactive for three years the treasury will have to pay out about $45,000,000 this year for back pay to carriers.

He said that so long as other bodies fix the postoffice department's rates of postage and parcel post matter, it would never be able to balance its finances.

When President Coolidge warned carriers to accept a last year's greater tax cut than approved by the treasury and against extravagant appropriations, he had in mind the uncertainty of this decision, New said.

MAYOR WALKER IN ROYAL SUITE
AT BANFF, ALTA.
Banff, Alta., July 31.—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, sartorial rival of the Prince of Wales, is occupying the vice regal suite in a hotel here which has been set aside for H. R. H. on his next visit to Banff.

SEVENTEEN MEXICAN REBELS ARE KILLED
Mexico City, July 31.—(AP)—A dispatch from Guadalajara today said 17 insurgents had been killed and many captured in a bloody battle at San Salvador ranch, where the men were entrenched. The battle, which lasted two hours, occurred on Saturday night. The insurgents were stated to have been commanded by 12 chiefs and five Catholic priests.

The insurgents numbered 450 and were driven from the ranch by federal soldiers toward the mountains. Five soldiers were killed.

Will Burn Shack Of Hermit Priest

Chicago, July 31.—(AP)—August Kessler's humble hut—a home, a church and a mausoleum within four tumbledown walls—may yield other bodies besides that of his aged cousin, Claudia Clara Hein. Police with axes and spades were to learn definitely today; then the place was to be burned.

The body of the 72-year-old woman was found yesterday in a rough coffin beneath Kessler's bed. She had been dead since April. Kessler said the body had been kept in the hut because she had pleaded against burial in the potter's field, and there were no funds for burial otherwise.

Lieutenant Laird, of the county police said there was much to be explained.

"There was a peg-leg man," the lieutenant said, "old, like Kessler, who lived with him and Claudia until a few months ago. The peg-leg man disappeared, vanishing as completely as though he had never existed."

Kessler today lay on a hospital cot, suffering from wounds inflicted when he was beset by two men and a woman Saturday. They had sought to compel him to reveal the hiding place of a hoard they insisted existed. When he reiterated that he was poor, they attacked him.

Twenty-six years ago Kessler was granted a permit to build a hut on land which is now part of Cook county's forest reserve. He had come here from Basle, Switzerland, after failing to win ordination as a priest. Within the hut he erected an altar, and surrounded himself with icons, religious books and paintings.

Peter heard that Kessler was a religious advisor to a small group who used his hermitage as a place of worship. They believed that the attempted robbery was instigated by the woman, possibly one of the worshippers, who told the men she had seen Kessler receive sums of money from his followers.

Kessler said his cousin died from lack of proper medical attention, he lacking funds to pay a doctor and she refusing his plea that she go to the county hospital.

A man and woman were under arrest—Michael Ott and Mrs. Ellen Naterville. Police said Mrs. Naterville admitted being implicated in the assault on Kessler. She named James Donovan, who was being sought today, as the other man.

Move Is Made
To Disbar Attorney
Negro G.O.P. Leader
Jackson, Miss., July 31.—(AP)—Action toward the disbarment of S. D. Redmond, negro attorney, by the republican and republican politicians of the state, whose name, with associates, has recently figured in the records of the department of justice, took a definite step here today when ex parte motion was entered on the docket of the chancery court.

The two local attorneys recently appointed by Chancellor V. J. Stricker to investigate the advisability of such procedure were associated with the county attorney, Hugh B. Gillespie, in filing the motion.

The committee in its motion sets forth three cases in which Redmond is alleged to have extracted "exorbitant and unreasonable fees" for his professional services.

Bogus Broker, Who Won Rich Girl, Faces Desertion Charge

Richmond, Va., July 31.—(United News)—Further difficulties faced Bernard F. Champagne, 25, bogus "Chocolate King" son, today when a capias arrived from Canton, Ohio, for him on a charge of failure to support minor children.

Champagne already has plenty of trouble on his hands, for he is being held by Richmond police on a charge of obtaining $15,000 from Mrs. R. Percy Feild, Ginter Park widow, under false representations. Champagne got the money, Mrs. Feild said, when he posed as Walter W. Baker, Jr., son of the Dorchester, Mass., "Chocolate King," and added casually that his favorite pastime was cleaning up on the stock market.

He was a member of the New York Stock exchange, Mrs. Feild said he told her.

Champagne told police he only borrowed the $15,000 from Mrs. Feild. He had an understanding with her to pay it back in September, he said.

COOLIDGE TO TAKE NO PART IN CAMPAIGN
Superior, Wis., July 31.—(AP)—President Coolidge's chief part in Secretary Hoover's campaign for the presidency will be to continue to do public affairs as to appeal to the electorate and move them to return the republican party to power in November.

Apart from this, Mr. Coolidge has agreed to undertake no special activities in the course of the campaign.

The contributions to Mr. Hoover's campaign, the chief executive feels, antedate the commerce secretary's nomination as republican standard bearer, inasmuch as ever since he was sworn in as president of the United States on August 2, 1923, Mr. Coolidge has always striven to give to the country a government which worked to the voters' satisfaction and benefit.

Mr. Coolidge will continue pursuing such a policy for the rest of his term of office.

Inasmuch as Mr. Coolidge was assured by Chairman Work of the national republican committee, that continuation of the present administration's policies would be made the chief issue in the campaign by Secretary Hoover, the chief executive feels that he can best enhance the prestige of the republican ticket by persisting in policies which up to now have appeared to him to have proved themselves popular.

It was thought here that Mr. Coolidge, in addition to such passive aid in the campaign, will be ready to help more actively from time to time, as occasion may suggest, to the extent of his power.

On account of shortness of the next session of congress, Mr. Coolidge sees little opportunity to inaugurate any new policy at this late hour in the life of his administration. For this reason he believes that it will be impossible for congress, upon reconvening next December to revise the tariff act so as to increase protection on agricultural products.

It was indicated, however, that Mr. Coolidge would not oppose on principle a move to raise such schedules.

The only way in which such a tariff revision could be accomplished in a short session, Mr. Coolidge feels, would be for leaders of both parties to agree beforehand on the amendments to be introduced.

Such an agreement in a campaign year is impossible, according to the chief executive, and while possible after elections is still unlikely.

REPLY TO CHINESE NOTE IS FRAMED

Washington, July 31.—(AP)—The state department is engaged in framing a reply to a note from the nationalist foreign minister in China, C. T. Wang, asking Secretary Kellogg to follow up the signing of the customs treaty restoring autonomy to China in tariff matters, by negotiation of "a proper settlement of all questions which are in need of immediate solution."

The note was received by cable yesterday from Minister MacMurray. It named Dr. C. E. Wu, now special nationalist representative in this country, as authorized to undertake the proposed negotiations, given that the communication was not specific as to the character of the questions needing immediate solution, it was assumed that it contemplated a treaty of amity and commerce between China and the United States which would be broad enough to cover all questions such as the extraterritorial rights enjoyed by Americans in China, in common with other foreigners, and which have been the object of nationalist desire for readjustment ever since the nationalist movement began.

It appears doubtful that the Washington government could assent to placing its nationals in China under jurisdiction of the existing Chinese legal system. The question was debated in the joint conference on extraterritoriality which was interrupted by the renewal of civil war in China.

The tariff question was possible in the Washington view because it involved only economic questions and with the treaty, given the times, it would be discriminated against in import or export transactions, there appeared no particular reason why autonomy could not be restored and the unilateral customs treaty by abandoned.

BRIDGE WORKER
KILLED AS BOOM
ON PIER BREAKS
Washington, July 31.—(AP)—Roy Deavers, 45, Arlington, Va., was killed today when a derrick boom on one of the piers of the Arlington Memorial bridge, which is under construction, broke.

Four other workmen were injured one seriously, by pieces of the falling boom, Harry Shavers, 60, Roanoke, Va., being in a hospital with scalp wounds and indications that he may have a fractured skull.

Deavers and the injured men were working around the caisson below the boom. They heard the noise of buckling metal and ran, but in the wrong direction, and were struck by pieces of falling steel.

B. of L. Realty
Co. Denied Right
To Transfer Property
Sarasota, Fla., July 31.—(AP)—Circuit Judge Paul C. Albright today denied a petition of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Realty company to dissolve an injunction prohibiting it from transferring any property in the town of Venice, Fla., to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

The injunction was issued two weeks ago on application of the Williams company and E. H. Price, who charged that the realty company, in transferring property to the brotherhood, was attempting to avoid payment to creditors who hold claims of more than $1,000,000.

In his decision today Judge Albright increased the bonds of the plaintiffs from $1,000 to $5,000.

Lightning Starts
Fires in Forests of Northwest
Missoula, Mont., July 31.—(AP)—More than a score of minor forest fires, started by lightning during a storm Sunday, were reported burning in the Lolo forest today. Twenty-five fire fighters have been sent to Seven Mile creek in the St. Regis district, where a 30-acre blaze was gaining headway before hot dry winds.

N. D. Non-Partisan League Will Put
Candidates in Field
Jamestown, N. D., July 31.—(AP)—Decision to place candidates in the field for the positions of governor, attorney general and commissioner of agriculture was the principal result of the Non-Partisan league convention yesterday.

Whether the candidates run as democrats, in the independent republican column or on stickers as republicans was left to the candidates themselves and the Non-Partisan league executive committee.

TWO BANDITS ROB

AIR POSTAGE CUT EFFECTIVE TODAY

Drastic reductions in the air-mail postage rates which become effective today will be marked in an impressive manner this afternoon at Candler field.

The largest and smallest letters ever to go by air mail will be posted this afternoon at Candler field for dispatch by the Atlanta-New York air-mail plane.

A giant envelope, four feet long and approximately two feet in width, will bear a greeting from Postmaster E. K. Large to Postmaster General Harry S. New, at Washington, D. C., on the occasion of the first flight under the new air-mail rate.

The smallest letter is engraved in such small letters that a magnifying glass is necessary to read the message. The smallest letter is a greeting from 6-year-old Helen Faulkner, daughter of the Atlanta operations manager, to Harold E. Pittman, Philadelphia, president of Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., operators of the Atlanta-New York air-mail line.

Postmaster Large's letter is written on six-foot stationery and the huge envelope and letter required more than two dollars in postage.

On the same plane will be an exhibit of Atlanta and Georgia manufactured products which will be placed on display in the lobby of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, in New York.

More than 25 Georgia manufacturers have entered displays of their products and a graphic picture of the state's industrial progress is presented by the widely-diversified list.

News reels are to be made of the exhibit this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Candler field and through national release of these pictures additional publicity will be given to the wide and diversified manufacturing interests of the state.

The New York display was arranged through the cooperation of the Georgia society and the merchant's association of New York with the Atlanta senior and junior chambers of commerce.

Included among the exhibitors are the following Atlanta firms: All-Star Manufacturing company, Ashcraft-Wilkinson company, Atlanta Brush company, Atlanta Cap Manufacturing company, Atlanta Container corporation, Atlanta Milling company, Coca-Cola company, Crescent Manufacturing company, Fox Manufacturing company, Fulton Bag & Cotton Mills, Heard Mayonnaise company, Norris, Inc., Novelty Footwear company, The Nunnally company, Nunnally-McCrea company, Oak Manufacturing company, J. K. Orr Shoe company, Phoenix Cheese company, Piedmont Cotton Mills, Princess Manufacturing company, A. M. Robinson company, H. Saul company, Scripto Manufacturing company, and Bellgrade Manufacturing company. Winter Valley mills, LaGrange; Georgia-Kincaid mills, Griffin; Tom Huston Peanut company, Columbus; Chicopee Manufacturing corporation, Gainesville.

SOUTH TOPS NATION'S R. O. T. C. ENROLLMENT

The fourth corps area composed of eight southeastern states, led all other areas in the United States in enrolling students in the R. O. T. C., it was disclosed by reports made recently by the war department. The figures published showed that the fourth corps area had a higher percentage of reserve officer students in proportion to the total number of students enrolled in its educational institutions, than any other section of the country.

Out of a total of 112,349 students in the R. O. T. C. throughout the United States, 17,364 were in the southeastern area. It was also shown that this section has more educational institutions which offer R. O. T. C. training than any other.

Schools in Georgia maintaining R. O. T. C. units are, among colleges and universities not necessarily military: Emory university, Georgia Institute of Technology and University of Georgia; colleges and universities where students are habitually under military discipline, North Georgia Agricultural school, Dahlonega; Georgia Military academy, Georgia Military college, Gordon institute, and Riverside; and high schools, Academy of Richmond county, Athens High school, Atlanta public high schools, Griffin High school, Lanier High school, Macon.

PRICES OF GASOLINE RAISED TO 24 CENTS

Gasoline prices reached a new high level Tuesday when practically all of the leading oil companies joined the movement started by the larger companies Monday. Prices throughout the city were 24 cents, an increase of a cent over the prevailing price a week ago, and the peak in a steady rise of prices that began in January when the rate was 18 cents.

The new increase was said to have been caused by an increase in prices in the oil fields. The Gulf, Holcomb, Pan-Am, Reed, Standard, Texas and Wofford Oil companies were involved.

FRAZIER NAMED NARCOTIC AGENT FOR THIS SECTION

C. R. Frazier, narcotic agent in charge at Honolulu for the past two years, assumed new duties Tuesday as narcotic agent in charge of the Atlanta district, succeeding T. E. Middlebrooks, who recently was transferred to Denver.

Stating that no other changes in the Atlanta division personnel were contemplated, Mr. Frazier said that J. J. Higgins will continue to act as assistant agent in charge, with Joe Goode and E. A. Williams as agents. Mr. Frazier entered the narcotic service 15 years ago in Nashville, and has been on duty in Richmond, on the Mexican border and in Honolulu. The primary problem in Honolulu is to curtail opium smoking and peddling among the foreign element, Mr. Frazier said. "The younger generation is showing a disposition to help wipe out the illicit traffic, which is most encouraging," he stated.

POSTMASTER LARGE TALKS ON AVIATION

Postmaster E. K. Large made the chief address at the weekly meeting of the American Business club Tuesday afternoon in the hall room of the Henry Grady hotel. Mr. Large took as his topic, "Atlanta as an Airport," discussing the air mail system and the general possibilities of aviation in Atlanta. An interesting program of music also was part of the program.

is expected to come from the fact that a quorum could not attend each of the two meetings called for August 11. The meeting called for August 12, this afternoon, Flanders classed members of the Pickett faction as "bolters" and charged that the meeting in Macon was called by the "bolter" chairman to further complicate matters and keep up his fight against Mr. Hoover, which he has made single-handed in.

The national committee is "back of the organization and we are paying no salary to either the police chairman, called by the ex-chairman at Macon," Flanders said. "We are going on with arrangements to perfect plans for the coming year, and are not molested by those who would frustrate the plans agreed upon by the state organization and the national committee. We are going to have order and party regularity, and have no patience with those who oppose the party nominees before and after the nomination."

Flanders declared that the electoral Pickett will be of high-class white men and will be without stain, said. "The custom of the party since 1890, when Major J. F. Hanson, president of the Macon and Georgia railroad, headed the ticket."

The injunction brought by Cofer was the "reflection of Ex-Chairman Pickett," Flanders said. "The case was without merit and was dismissed on the motion of the plaintiff, to avoid the humiliation of dismissal of the case."

Says Pickett Was Ousted.

Flanders pointed out that "Mr. Pickett, et al., were ousted from the republican state central committee for the year 1920 on charges of violation of the rules provide that membership on the committee may be declared vacant without charge or trial for certain offenses. The charges were failure to attend meeting, violation of written instructions and refusal to support party nominees," Flanders said. "They were adjudged guilty and ousted."

Pickett said Tuesday from his home in Jasper that all electors chosen at the meeting would be white people, so that democrats who wish to vote against Al Smith may have the opportunity.

In the hearing before Judge Pomeroy the hearing before Judge Duke of Flovilla, attorney for the Flanders faction, asserted that Pickett was "lying in the face of a court order in calling the meeting." Macon to name electors, as he was one of the defendants in the injunction suit, Judge Pomeroy told Duke to present a petition for contempt of court and said that he would hear it. Frank Williams, attorney for the Pickett faction, then caused a surprise by announcing that on last Saturday he had obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Williams of Savannah, and that he, Williams, as defendants, then petitioned allowing Pickett to proceed with plans for naming electors.

Rumania Offers Big Market For U.S. Goods, Says Fouché

Acting Commercial Attache at Bucharest Will Meet Business Men Here Saturday.

Sproull Fouché, acting commercial attache at Bucharest, Rumania, and native of Cartersville, Ga., will visit Atlanta Saturday to confer with exporters here in regard to general economic conditions in his territory, it was announced Tuesday by Harry O. Mitchell, branch manager of the department of commerce.

Suggestions as to how the sale of the products of Atlanta industries may be increased in Rumania will be offered to local business men by Mr. Fouché. According to Mr. Fouché, American goods are well and favorably known in that country, and the Balkan kingdom is an important present and potential European market for American manufactured goods. European manufacturers recognize the importance of this market and are making every possible effort to re-establish their pre-war trade relations with Rumania, he says.

Superior quality of American goods is generally recognized by the Rumanian people, approximately 80 per satisfactory, and the cases in which American exporters have suffered any loss have been few, he finds. American automobile have taken the country by storm, and 82 per cent of the cars sold in Rumania during 1927 were of American origin.

Mr. Fouché almost has recovered from an injury suffered when he was accidentally shot in the leg while a guest of friends at a hunting lodge near Bucharest in May.

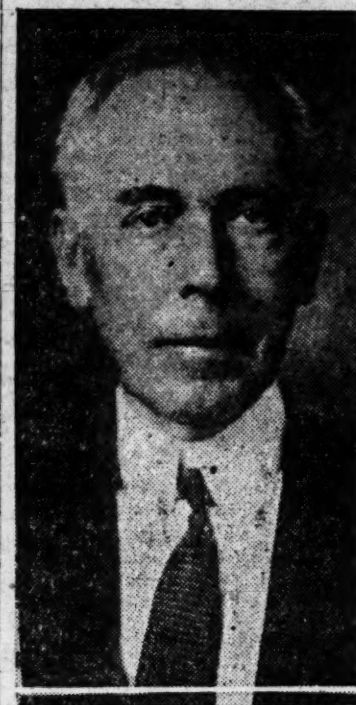

Born in Bartow county, he graduated from the University of Georgia and also attended the University of Virginia. He was president of the Citizens bank of Rome, Ga., for 15 years, and was vice consul to Rumania for a year. During 1921-22 he traveled extensively in Italy, Egypt, India, China, Turkey, Greece, Japan and Palestine, investigating cotton production and marketing methods. He practiced law for five years, and in April of 1924 entered the service of the department of commerce as cotton specialist in the textile division, later becoming chief of the Balkan section of the European division. In May of 1925, he was appointed assistant trade commissioner at Bucharest, and in September of that year was designated as acting commercial attache.

He will remain in Atlanta through Monday, and expects to spend some time with Mrs. Fouché at his old home in Cartersville.

KILL-KO ADS DRAW FAVORABLE COMMENT

Two of the most remarkable instances of continuity in advertising ever seen in the south are being furnished in the current copy for Kill-Ko, southern-made insecticide, in its absorbing series of very human copy, "Life's Little Tragedies" and "The Doings of Johnny."

The Rigo Manufacturing company, of Nashville, Tenn., makers of Kill-Ko, are hearing more every day about the interest aroused by these two sets of advertisements, they state. On every hand "Life's Little Tragedies" is being mistaken for newspaper readers for an interesting new feature and is looked forward to with genuine anticipation. Kill-Ko is harnessing in this way the popular love of cartoons and comics.

cent of whom are peasants living in a primitive way, according to information from Mr. Fouché. Manufacturing being but slightly developed in Rumania, the approximately 17,500,000 population of that country, in a large measure, must be supplied with manufactured articles from abroad, he points out.

Rumania has made great progress in economic rehabilitation since the end of the world war, and relations between American business men and Rumanian importers have been quite

Summer Visitors, Brides-Elect Give Impetus to Social Life

Delightfully cool summer days, filled with sunshine, give an impetus to entertaining of an informal nature, with popular brides-elect and a group of charming visitors furnishing daily inspiration. Luncheons, teas and dinners, either preceded or followed by bridge, make up the calendar for today, with the Atlanta Biltmore and the Atlanta Athletic club holding their regular mid-week dinner-dances this evening.

Miss Jean Williams, who becomes the bride of Albert Wright, Saturday, August 11, will be central figure at two lovely parties today.

Mrs. Garrard Williams entertaining for her at luncheon at the Biltmore and Mrs. Howard Dobbs, Jr., entertaining at a bridge-ten in her honor.

Two former Atlanta belles, Miss Neel Kendrick and Miss Margaret Fraser, who now reside in New York, are favorites among the summer visitors. Mrs. Maybelle S. Wall's tea this afternoon at her home on Cumberland road will honor these erstwhile Atlantans.

Miss Mary Baumgarten, of New Orleans, La., is receiving much social attention as the guest of Miss Elizabeth Scott, who entertains at bridge, followed by tea, this afternoon at her home on Westminster drive, honoring her guest.

Another New York visitor, Miss Oro Hyde, who is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Allen D. Johnson, will be guest of honor at the dinner to be given by her hosts this evening.

The Studio club's tea this afternoon will assemble a group of the club's prominent members.

Police Relief Group To Have Picnic.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Police Relief association met Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. N. A. Lanford, 504 Boulevard, S. E. The newly elected president presided. The auxiliary will have a basket picnic at the next meeting Thursday, August 2, at 4 o'clock at Grant park. A pavilion supper will be served at 7 o'clock. The Police band will be the honor guests at the picnic. All members and their families are invited to come.

Mr. Hartsock To Attend Alabama Conclave.

Ernest Hartsock, publisher of Bazaar, will attend the meeting of the conclave of Alabama writers at the Alabama college in Montevallo, Ala., on August 13 to 16. The conclave's first publication, "The Alabama Anthology of Verse," was printed by the Bazaar press, and will be presented

Ruby Anniversary To Be Celebrated Sunday Evening

All the Baptist churches of the city will be closed next Sunday evening, August 5, in order that all members of their congregations may attend the mammoth ruby anniversary pageant, which will be presented at the city auditorium. The pageant is under the auspices of Atlanta Baptist Women's Missionary union, and the history of 40 years of progress of woman's missionary union of the south will be portrayed, requiring between 300 and 400 characters. The characters have been chosen from over 60 Baptist churches of Atlanta association, in which there are 225 missionary societies of the graded union.

The pageant was written by Mrs. W. D. Burke, of Grant Park Baptist church, and will be directed by Mrs. Wilbur M. Jones, superintendent of B. W. M. U., assisted by able committees. The last rehearsal for the pageant will be held at the city auditorium Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is necessary for all participants in the pageant to be present at the last rehearsal.

No admittance fee and no collection will be taken on the evening of the pageant. Every interested person is invited.

to the conclave by Mr. Hartsock, who is among the well-known poets of Atlanta. The program includes discussion by prominent authorities of all phases of writing, fiction, essay, historical, verse and other forms.

Army Personnel At Ft. McPherson Makes Changes

Fort McPherson, July 31.—The personnel of the army group is changing rapidly, due to orders from the war department causing the departure of a number of popular members of the military set and the arrival of charming additions from other stations throughout the country. Fort Benning claims three of the post's official family, for Captain and Mrs. Malcolm Fortier, Captain and Mrs. Stanley Blanton and Lieutenant and Mrs. Robert T. Foster will be stationed there coming year. Lieutenant and Mrs. Cyril E. Faine leave August 1, by motor, for their new station at Fort Monmouth, N. J., while mid-August will find Colonel and Mrs. George F. Burtell en route to their new station at Jacksonville, Fla., and Major and Mrs. John Hutchinson will be sailing from New York for their new home.

Charming additions to army group are Major and Mrs. Roland Gaugler, who have apartments in Building 27; Captain and Mrs. Edwards, who also have been assigned quarters in the same building; Captain and Mrs. Thomas H. Ramsey, who have quarters in 27, and Major Clyde Abraham, who is occupying Quarters 36. Mrs. Abraham is expected to arrive at the garrison in the early fall.

A number of reserve officers on temporary duty at the garrison added to the gaiety of the social life, and with the arrival of the third unit of reserve officers next week the post will again enter upon a round of parties.

Major and Mrs. William Denton and their attractive children, William, Jr., and Jane, will be numbered among the absentees for the month of August, for they plan to motor to Pennsylvania and New York to visit relatives. Their itinerary includes Asheville, N. C., a drive through the picturesque Shenandoah valley and up east by way of the William Penn highway, with a return trip through Washington, D. C., and Virginia. The Dentons plan to return to Atlanta September 1, and will remain here until January, when they will leave for Major Denton's new station at the army and navy general hospital at Hot Springs, Ark. During their six years spent in Atlanta the Dentons have been popular in both military and civilian circles, and their many friends regret their departure.

Mrs. Havens Honors New Orleans Visitor.

Mrs. Henry Havens was hostess at a bridge-luncheon Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock at her home on Seventeenth street in honor of Miss Mary Baumgarten, of New Orleans, the guest of Miss Elizabeth Scott.

The guests included Miss Baumgarten, Miss Scott, Miss Mary Dodd, Miss Elizabeth Dodd, Miss Marion Wolff, Miss Virginia Courts, Mrs. Edgar Taylor, Mrs. Forrest Adams, Jr., Miss Marguerite Scott, Miss Ethel Royer, Miss Oliver and Mrs. Havens.

Florida Visitor Is Honored.
Mrs. S. G. Quisenberry was hostess Tuesday at a luncheon followed by bridge at her home on Peachtree road in compliment to Mrs. Oscar Miller, of West Palm Beach, Fla., the guest of Mrs. George A. Sexton at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue.

The guests were Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Sexton, Mrs. A. H. Brice, Mrs. Claude English, Mrs. C. S. Turner, Mrs. Ward Albertson, Mrs. M. R. Sutherland, Mrs. Fred Jeter and Mrs. Grace Ogden.

Miss Mildred LaHatte Is Guest of Honor.

Mrs. Herbert W. Brown and Miss Anna May Cole were hostesses at a bridge-ten on Saturday afternoon at the Frances-Virginia Tea room, honoring Miss Mildred LaHatte, a bride-elect of August. Top score was won by Mrs. John Hoffman and consolation was cut by Mrs. Robert J. Krenson.

Those present were Misses Mildred LaHatte, Frances Roberts, Mary O'Donnell, Anna Mulehah, Mary Frances Egert, Anna May Cole, Mesdames C. A. LaHatte, Robert Krenson, Slater Marshall, John Hoffman, Pierre Vignaux, M. J. Cole and Herbert Brown.

Mrs. Julian Arnold Gives Bridge-Tea.

Mrs. Julian E. Arnold was hostess at a bridge-ten Tuesday at her home on Candler street in honor of Mrs. Max V. Gardner, of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Sverre Gulbrandsen, of Woodbury, N. J., and Mrs. Stokes Filer, a recent bride. Assisting in entertaining was the mother of the hostess, Mrs. Charles Thomas. Guests included Mesdames Eugene Kemp, Howard Helland, Garnett Gabriel, Albert Heinsberger, J. J. Roberts, Evan Howell, Lewis Barrett, Aubrey Johnson, Darnard Henderson, Alton Farris, John Bradley, W. C. Waddell and Miss Louise Seaborn.

Miss Ruth Walker Honors Miss Cornelius.

Miss Ruth Walker entertained Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. T. Swann on Fourteenth street at a linen shower in honor of Miss Adelaide Cornelius, a bride-elect of September 4. Mrs. Irvin Holland was prize winner in the contest. As the wedding march from Lohengrin was played little Barbara McCamy entered dressed as a bride and presented the gifts to the bride-elect. Miss Walker was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Mrs. Billy Walker.

Mrs. J. J. Kennedy will entertain for Miss Cornelius Saturday, August 4, at her home on Tenth street at a bridge-shower. This popular bride-elect will be feted with many other parties, the dates to be announced later.

Junior League Announces Menu for Wednesday.

The Atlanta Junior League tea room, in its attractive quarters at 91 1-2 Peachtree street, opposite the Metropolitan theater, offers a delicious menu for Wednesday. Among the many specials is a combination salad plate including chicken salad, potato salad, frozen fruit salad with Chandler's dressing, wafers, iced tea, for 85 cents; a plate with cold stuffed tomato, ham sandwich, iced tea, for 50 cents; another plate including chicken a la King on toast, iced tea, rolls, for 75 cents; fried chicken, rice with gravy, steamed corn, iced tea, peach ice cream, for 85 cents; the 65-cent luncheon includes smothered steak, choice of two vegetables, iced tea, cherry cobbler or ice cream; the 50-cent vegetable plate includes choice of four vegetables, bread and drink.

The following members of the Junior league will act as hostesses Wednesday: Mrs. Charles Black, Jr., Mrs. Richard Sawtell, Mrs. J. P. Garlington, Miss Ann Kessnick, Miss Jeanette Bailey.

The proceeds of this tea room go to maintain a ward in the Henrietta Eggleston Memorial Hospital for Children, which opens early in September.

Miss Thompson and Mr. Schweppe Wed at Chapel Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Kate Thompson and Mr. Irving Schweppe was solemnized Tuesday at 11:30 o'clock at the Wilmer chapel of St. Luke's Episcopal church. Rev. Henry Harrison performed the ceremony in the presence of a fashionable gathering of the social contingent.

The interior of the chapel was effectively decorated for the occasion with luxuriant palms, ferns and greenery interspersed with myriads of white hydrangeas, which were placed amid the green foliage in artistic arrangement. The altar was banked with fern and white flowers and on either side were graceful silver candelabra holding burning white tapers.

Preceding the ceremony a beautiful program of nuptial music was rendered by Hugh Hodgson, organist of the church.

Wedding Attendants.

The maid of honor was Miss Palmer Dallas, and she was groomed in lovely model of green chiffon, with which she wore a green felt hat trimmed with yellow gardenias, and she carried a bouquet of varicolored flowers, yellow pernet roses predominating.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Kilgore, was groomed in a costume similar to that worn by the maid of honor.

Miss Henrietta Simpson, little niece of the groom, was the junior bridesmaid, and she was also groomed in green chiffon, with small green felt hat, and carried a colonial bouquet of pastel-shaded flowers.

Barnard Boykin was the best man and acting as ushers were Arthur Pugh and Joseph Singleton.

The bride's attractive beauty was enhanced by her gown of beige crepe satin fashioned in the two-piece mode, a becoming touch being the collar of self-tones which formed a graceful cascade at one side. She wore a small hat of beige velvet and her corsage was of orchids. The bride carried a prayer book showered with valley lilies.

Mrs. Charles E. Thompson, mother of the bride, was groomed in black georgette with a black satin hat, and her corsage was of orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. I. E. Schweppe, the groom's mother, wore a gown of gray georgette with a gray felt hat, and her corsage was of pink roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Charles Pottinger, sister of the bride, wore a gown of black chiffon trimmed with white, and her hat was of black horsehair.

Mrs. George Horan, another sister of the bride, was groomed in tan georgette, lace-trimmed, with touches of green, and her hat was of green. Mrs. William Pendleton, the bride's aunt, of Washington, wore black crepe satin with black hat.

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to New York, from where they will sail for Europe August 2 on the S. S. Dresden, and upon their return they will make their home in Atlanta.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

TWO BABIES INTEREST KING EAGLE.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS. Unknowingly we often tell the secret that we guard so well. —Mrs. Lightfoot.

There was one secret that King Eagle had discovered in the green forest that he kept to himself. He didn't even hint of it to Mrs. Eagle. It wasn't selfishness that caused him to keep this secret to himself. No, it wasn't selfishness. It was quite the opposite. You see, from the moment that King Eagle discovered that secret in the green forest, he hoped to give Mrs. Eagle and the two babies in their nest a pleasant surprise.

King Eagle had been sailing high in the blue, blue sky over the green forest, looking down as was his habit. Presently he discovered Mrs. Lightfoot the deer. She was alone in fact, she was getting her breakfast at the time. The sight of her reminded King Eagle of something.

"Let me see," said King Eagle, talking to himself, for there was no one else to talk to up there in the blue, blue sky. "It is about time that Mrs. Lightfoot should have babies. I wonder if it can be that she has them already, but has hidden them away somewhere. My, my, my, how good one of those young fawns would taste! I don't want it for myself, but one would certainly make very tender and delicate meat for Mrs. Eagle to give to the children. I think I'll hang around for awhile and keep an eye on Mrs. Lightfoot."

So King Eagle did this very thing. He appeared to just float around way up in the blue, blue sky. Apparently, he wasn't doing anything special or watching any one in particular. But all the time he managed to keep Mrs. Lightfoot in view.

For some time Mrs. Lightfoot seemed to be concerned only with getting her breakfast. She was grazing on some tender plants and young grass in a little opening in the green forest. After every bite or two she would lift her head to look this way, to look that way, sniff the air, and turn her great ears to catch every merry little breeze that was wandering about. Even from some distance she could hear the rustle of leaves and the chirping of birds. It was easy to see that she was nervous. While he watched her King Eagle searched on all sides in the grass for baby deer, for the little spotted fawns that are the prettiest babies in the green forest. But not a glimpse of one did he get.

"I won't tell Mrs. Eagle," said he.

After a while Mrs. Lightfoot went down to the laughing brook for a drink. Then she lightly leaped across it and moved slowly along through the green forest.

"I guess she hasn't any babies after all," thought King Eagle, and for a moment turned his attention to the pond of Paddy the beaver, where Buster Bear was getting a drink. When he looked back at Mrs. Lightfoot he got such a surprise that he almost forgot to keep his wings spread. Beside Mrs. Lightfoot were two spotted babies! Yes, sir, there were two spotted babies, and prettier babies never lived. But where they had come from King Eagle couldn't imagine. He had to be satisfied with the knowledge that there were two babies in the deer family. There was no chance to get one of them then.

"No, sir, I won't tell Mrs. Eagle. I won't raise any false hopes. But I'll keep my eye on Mrs. Lightfoot. Sooner or later, before they get too big, I'll have a chance at one of those babies of hers. At least, I hope I will."

Mrs. Thomas Erwin Gives Advice To Horticulturists for August

Atlanta horticulturists, and number is legion, will take advantage of the wealth of knowledge expressed in the article written by Mrs. Thomas C. Erwin on the subject of "August Gardens." She is a member of the Peachtree Garden club, and each month prepares an instructive paper to read before the membership. As there are several other garden clubs in Atlanta, and garden divisions which are a unit of federated clubs, the article will be of great value to amateur gardeners, and to many just beginning to cultivate plots of ground.

Mrs. Erwin says: "As torrid weather may be expected during August, it is fortunate that this is not one of the busiest months in the garden. There is plenty to do, but the rush work is finished and it is time to rest if you are gardening for pleasure. This may be a strange time to talk of spring gardens, but if one is to have a spring garden at all the start must be made long in advance. As we all realize, the spring garden is largely dependent for its beauty and charm on bulbs which must be planted this fall. Make out your order now for spring flowering bulbs, such as crocus, daffodils, narcissus, hyacinths, jonquils, snowdrops, or better still, snowflakes, which are larger and more fragrant; grape hyacinths and scillas. There should be more of the latter planted. They do well here, are very pretty and inexpensive. The colors are red and white."

"Sow now for spring flowering seeds of English daisies and pansies. The bulbs of madonna lilies should be planted the end of August. To have good blooms next year they must be planted in time to make a growth before cold weather. They are not stem rooting lilies, so from two to four inches below the surface of the ground is deep enough to plant them. The bulbs should be dusted lightly with sulphur. Lay them on their sides, turning the open end of the bulb to point with the slope of the ground. In order that moisture cannot run into the bulb and rot it. No manure must be used in connection with the bulb, but a fine sand should be under and over it. Trim out all superfluous branches on your dahlias, also remove all fading leaves. In the center of the plant, to allow free circulation of air. After the buds appear feed every Chrysanthemum should have liquid manure every two weeks until they bud."

"August is the rest month for roses. Keep on feeding them until September 1 to have good fall bloom. No fertilizer should be given after that as it produces new wood which does not have time to mature before frost. Keep perennial seedlings cared for and pick out for first transplanting as two true leaves appear. All evergreens require a great deal of water. Cut straw flowers when half open. Remove all the leaves and hang heads in a cool place in the dark. Do not neglect to gather flower seeds at the proper time. Do it in a systematic way. Mark each packet on the outside with name, color and also year."

"If you want some freesias in the house next winter plant the bulbs this month. They come in many colors and are very fragrant. A good deal of spraying will be needed this month. The dry weather of August is a fine time for all species of aphids, red, black, green and white. Spray with black leaf 40. It is hard to keep labels on plants. Try this kind: Buy a roll of good tape; write the name of the plant with indelible ink; with a coarse needle run a string through one end of the tape, then dip the bottom in paraffin. Keeping faded blossoms cut off must be one of the duties of August. There are some duties that are always in order, and this is one. Like woman's work, there are some things in the garden that are never done. All the rain this summer has made the best seed up long shoots. These look ugly in a hedge. Trim them off, put in your sand box and by spraying you will have fine rooted plants to set out. If you want quick growing vine polygonum auberti is a good one. It is also called silver lace vine. I have not seen one of it here, but if any of you have driven up Park avenue in New York in summer you have probably noticed it on the iron fences around the subway ventilators. From cuttings taken this spring I have some about 20 feet high already. It is rampant."

"There are so many beautiful rock plants that it is well worth while to make a collection of them. A small cluded spot for it on your place, where it may be made to look natural. The most important thing is to tip your rocks so they hold the moisture and not so it runs off down the bank; in other words, tip them towards the back at the bottom instead of away from it. This was told me by a rock garden expert in Scotland. Try putting some hyacinths to have in the house next winter. Get good bulbs. After potting water well, let stand one day. Dig a hole about two feet deep in a shady place. Put cuttings in the bottom, then the pots and fill up with dirt. Forget them for about two or three months. In this way they get good roots before the tops begin to grow, so they won't bloom down in

Ed Hamm Sets New Record in Olympic Broad Jump

Determination Sent Hamm To Forefront

Georgia Tech Broad Jumper Now Recognized as Foremost.

New York, July 31.—(P)—Three years ago a gangling high school youth, looking on while the world's then greatest broad jumper was making a new record leap, Edward Hamm, of Leno, Ark., and Georgia Tech is now a champion himself, having won the crown today at Amsterdam with a new Olympic record jump.

The old story of dreams coming true and youthful ambitions being realized apply to Hamm, whose rise to national world record and Olympic championship heights this year is one of the greatest sagas of sport. It was a strange coincidence that Dehart Hubbard, the master jumper whom Hamm saw make that great leap in 1925, was eliminated today at Amsterdam and succeeded by the southern boy as champion.

"Speed is what has done it," said Hamm.

Determination. "Determination and a wonderful competitive spirit are among his biggest assets," says the Georgia Tech athletic director, W. A. Alexander. It was at Stagg field, Chicago, one June day in 1925 that Hamm, then a high school senior, watched from the side lines as Hubbard, famous Cincinnati negro athlete, six times national champion, world recordholder and 1924 Olympic champion, raced down the stretch and leaped 25 feet 10 7/8 inches. This, the experts said, was a world's record that would stand the test for many a year unless broken by Hubbard himself, the acknowledged king pin of all jumpers.

The scene shifts to Harvard stadium on the afternoon of July 7, 1928, and the final American Olympic try-outs. A bronzed, rangy youth with powerful legs suddenly dashes down the straightaway, flings himself out and lands at the far end of the pit in a splash of dirt. The tape shows a new world's record mark of 25 feet 11 1/8 inches.

Shift the scene again to the Olympic stadium, Amsterdam, and there is the picture of the same bronzed, smiling southerner, this time in red, white and blue striped uniform, leaping to the world's championship with the erstwhile titleholder, Hubbard, looking on.

Jumping Sprae.

Hubbard has had the handicap of a weak ankle this year, while Hamm, equipped with the speed of a spring of youth, has come along at an astonishing pace. The Georgia Tech junior was just a good jumper a year ago, above the college average but not yet considered a real rival of the great negro. This year Hamm has gone on a jumping spree that eclipses anything on record, clearing 25 feet not less than eight times in Atlanta, Birmingham, Chicago and Boston prior to his final epiphany in the Olympics.

"Twenty-six feet is not only possible but probably a mark that will be reached consistently in the future," says this southerner, who has "softened up" 25 feet to such an extent that it has become a common occurrence.

SPEAKING OF COMPETITORS.

In discussing great competitors you hear no little about Babe Ruth, Walter Hagen, Lloyd Hahn and others, who are their best when the spotlight is brightest.

But when it comes to the double-starred competitive sector no one, off hand, can think of a better name than Johnny Weissmuller, the greatest swimming sprinter of all time. There is one human being, who in a pinch can out-gallop or out-paddle a fish. When Weissmuller comes to the last few yards of a swimming championship he seems to climb out of the water, skimming along the top after the manner of a fast motor boat. If Weissmuller has to break a record to win, Weissmuller breaks a record. In the 100 meters race at Paris in 1924 Weissmuller seemed to be beaten with less than ten yards to go. His drive for the finish line reminded one of a barracuda's sudden dash for food. He had to break a record to win that day.

The swimming race is one of the most popular and one of the most likeable figures in sport. He has more than his share of personal magnetism—and when it comes to water speed there is only one Johnny.

The Art of Relaxing. There is nothing grim or tense or taut about Weissmuller, even before a big championship final starts. He knows how to conserve his nerve energy, or perhaps he is naturally a carefree citizen, who doesn't bother a lot about what may happen.

This ability to keep relaxed at the right time is either a great gift or a great science—so far as competitive sport is concerned. One can only remain keyed up for so long a time, and too much early tension may be called on to pay its price on the drive down the stretch.

Jack Dempsey burned away many ounces of nerve energy before every fight. There was no chance for him to keep relaxed, for he wasn't arranged that way.

Competitive Speeds. A certain critic once remarked that the main trouble with Dempsey, Bobby Jones and Bill Johnston was the ownership of only one speed—top speed all the time and no letting down for many a year unless broken by Hubbard himself, the acknowledged king pin of all jumpers.

In this connection the tennis critic of "The London Times" has some interesting comment to make on Tilden's game. The matter of high and low speed is taken up. "Since last year Tilden is not only a spectacle, he is a puzzle. In early rounds anyone can see that he must win the championship, but that conviction has now to be reconciled with the evidence that he loses it. How can Tilden lose? Cochet? Yes; trying what he does, it is a marvel to the spectators that he ever wins against the big ones. Borotra? Yes; even a volleys must do a lot of driving, and there is an effort about Borotra's driving that leads to its being underestimated. Lacoste? You have to look carefully at Lacoste to consider him as an aspirant; he always gets such easy balls—you could do something with them yourself. But Tilden! That service and his power and certainty at driving—the part of the game for which most time is allowed, and, therefore, the part presumably least influenced by luck. Watching him last year against Brugnon, it seemed impossible that he could ever lose a match that he had set out to win. And when he led

THE GUMPS—THE SILENT PARTNER

The Taming of Elizabeth

By WINIFRED BOGGS

SYNOPSIS.
The young Elizabeth is the adopted daughter of Tim and Elizabeth Darcy. When she is four years old she runs away from home to avoid punishment for getting into mischief. She is brought home promptly by a neighbor, Mrs. Smiley.

At 12, Elizabeth runs away again, this time from school and to the home of her aunt, Dolly, in London. Dolly, who is almost as flighty as the young Elizabeth, sympathizes with her niece much to the irritation of her stepson, Stephen Whitby. After the death of her aunt, Stephen goes to live with her aunt. During the war they keep themselves busy and also amused by performing amateur theatricals for the benefit of wounded soldiers. Stephen, home on leave, is asked by his stepmother to bring Mark Lannax, a young playwright, to one of their performances. Elizabeth, who is in London, is asked by her aunt to bring Mark Lannax, a young playwright, to one of their performances. Elizabeth, who is in London, is asked by her aunt to bring Mark Lannax, a young playwright, to one of their performances.

INSTALLMENT XXVII
MOAT GRANGE.

Elizabeth grumbled to Mrs. Vestington, "Stephen is all sense and nothing else." He's as much feeling or sympathy for anybody or anything as a . . . her eyes fell on a field behind the station, "as a potato," she added.

If Mrs. Vestington noted the resentment in Elizabeth's voice she made no comment upon it.

"I hope you don't mind my bringing all these boxes," said Elizabeth apologetically as they went towards the van. "I had nowhere to leave them." "I am glad you have brought them all," said Mrs. Vestington warmly. "There's heaps of room at Moat Grange for hundreds of boxes, and the porter can put them on the cart. She turned to the one solitary porter and gave him curt directions.

He looked at her sulkily, almost as if he would have refused had he dared, and proceeded to carry them one by one across the line and load them on a truck. He certainly did not hurry himself, but one of the boxes was heavy and there was rather a lot of them.

Mrs. Vestington led the way over the bridge and Elizabeth saw a smart car with chauffeur outside. She was making her way towards it, when Mrs. Vestington tapped her arm and drew her towards a broken down old man in dirty gardeners' clothes in charge of it. "Get in, dear," she commanded rather imperiously.

Elizabeth's heart sank. This did not look much like gilded luxury, or even comfort. One could not go motor runs in a thing like that. Then the porter arrived staggering under the luggage which he fixed on, her face cleared. How silly she was, as if people brought their decent cars for heavy luggage!

The sweating porter was dismissed with a sixpence. He seemed disgruntled but not in the least surprised, and after giving Elizabeth a keen glance, he walked away with a shrug of his shoulders. So Mrs. Vestington, if generous to some, could be mean enough to others, another disconcerting thought. The car proceeded on its way in a series of bumps and jerks; it looked almost as old as its driver; both might have come out of the ark.

"I do not care at all for this craze for motoring," said Mrs. Vestington, looking at Elizabeth under her eyelids in a curious, disconcerting way she had, for those hidden eyes seemed to sense so much. "I find it rather tiresome."

If this was the speaker's idea of motoring Elizabeth did not wonder. There was then no other car! How did she get about to the scattered neighbors, to the nearest village of Mundy Hollow which was 12 miles from the house? Possibly she preferred to hire a car. Yes, that must be it.

The road traversed was straight and dreary, flat marshland either side of it, with no sign of human habitation or humanity. Even cattle and sheep were absent; no grass grew, no birds sang. Now and then the curlews flying low over the marshes gave forth their haunting, despairing cry.

Elizabeth shuddered. If it was like Aunt Het

"I don't waste much sympathy on that Jones tribe. Pa says Fate kept 'em poor, but acts o' Providence don't make a house smell like that."

SALLY'S SALLIES

When the term mankind is used, it includes woman, for man embraces woman.

in this brilliant summer sunshine, what must it be like in the winter? Now the wind went piping through the reeds with a hollow sound, but when December shut down on the land and the wind went forth like a devouring lion over those waste places. . . . it would be rather dreadful than this. "Frightening" was the word she used to herself. It was warm, yet suddenly Elizabeth felt cold and a curious feeling came upon her almost of one entering a living tomb, of being shut away from life and the things of youth and life. She remembered Stephen's words, she could almost have welcomed his presence for the moment. He had said she was far too impulsive, that she had had no right to accept this post, no matter how tempting it appeared, until he had investigated matters. And she had told him—crude and rudely as she acknowledged now—to "go and boll his head" adding she was old enough and wise enough to manage her own concerns, and that she would be obliged if he would "quit that in his pipe and smoke it." Then she had added she was going on the following morning and had telegraphed to that effect.

"I'm glad it's such a lovely day for your first glance of your future home," said Mrs. Vestington graciously.

The old man in front broke into a sudden harsh laugh.

Mrs. Vestington appeared not to hear, and Elizabeth wondered how she could retain such an ill-mannered old creature, a creature neither fish, flesh nor fowl, to their way of talking. She decided she would be very tactful and get them on her side.

"Here we are!" said Mrs. Vestington and Elizabeth was surprised, because all she saw were immense high walls. They drew up before a vast iron gate which looked as if it might have been built to repel the attack of invaders. The Moat Grange must be very old, "quite historical," she decided. She eyed the gate with interest because there was a sort of tradesmen's hatch attached to it, also a postman's box. "How quite so quaint!" thought Elizabeth. Then she saw that by the side there was a bell and noticed that it was Mrs. Vestington, not the old man, who got out and rang.

Instantly the gates were swung open by an old woman with a white face and stony watchful eyes, who came out of the tiny lodge inside. The drove in and the old woman shut the gates behind them with a clang that somehow made Elizabeth start unpleasantly. Then she looked at the key in her pocket.

"Did the salmon come, Blossom?" asked Mrs. Vestington.

"Yes, madam, shortly after you left."

"Blossom!" echoed Elizabeth to herself. Was every name in the world more incongruously named? "She's more like a spider, a goaler, something hard and cruel and watchful, anyway . . . but a blossom!"

Then they were before the house and the girl's spirits rose. It was a charming house, long and low and flooded with sunshine. Oh! creepers clung to it, a large lawn with shady trees lay in front of its large windows. But there were no flowers unless a flower garden lay further round the house, nor no welcoming sound of dogs. Only a great stillness, a sort of breathlessness.

Another old man, obviously a butler, opened the door to them, and coming down the steps eyed the luggage askance. Elizabeth, pausing for a moment to collect her wraps before she followed Mrs. Vestington waiting for her at the top of the steps, heard the butler say to the gardener, that Elizabeth realized must be his vocation, "Looks like a stayer for a change!"

The other old man gave his harsh laugh, and the girl decided he was not quite "all there," though possibly useful as a gardener. Still she could not imagine him successful with flowers.

"Miss Darcy! Miss Darcy!" Elizabeth ran up the steps, and Mrs. Vestington led her into a very large drawing room, gay with old fashioned chintzes and bright curtains. A cheerful room, which looked more like the lounge of a large hotel than the sitting room of one old lady. There must have been literally dozens of comfortable arm chairs. For the most part they drooped listlessly, but one beat itself despairingly against its prison, and with a frown Mrs. Vestington went up to it, shaking the cage so that the terrified little creature went wild with terror.

"I've them everything," she complained, "but they will not sing."
